Ohio Faces Highway Cash Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could lose more than $550 million in federal highway grants if Gov. James A. Rhodes' gas tax bond issue is not approved, transportation director Richard Jackson has warned legislators.

"The Ohio Department of Transportation program is basically broke," Jackson told a House Finance Committee budget hearing Thursday.

Anticipating a sharp drop off in capital improvements, the department has submitted a $721 million budget request that falls $219 million below the current spending level.

Jackson said the governor was going ahead with plans for a petition drive to put the $1.64 billion transportation bond issue and four other proposed constitutional amendments on the November ballot without legislative approval.

But he indicated the administration would still prefer to see the General Assembly act on the programs.

"We recommend that the proposal be approved and put before the people for a vote," he testified.

The transportation bond plan, which calls for a .9 cent increase in the seven cents per gallon state gasoline tax, has the support of majority Democratic leaders. However, disagreements over the content of the other programs has stalled the entire package.

"The bond proposal offered the most viable prospect for funding an integrated transportation program over the next few years," Jackson told the committee. "If the bond proposal is not successful, we've got some very tough nuts to crack."

He said the revenue would enable the state to attract $429 million in federal highway funds in the 1976 fiscal year. That amount would swell to $558 million in 1977, a transportation spokesman said.

A bill which has passed the Senate and is pending in the House would provide an $18.5 million appropriation as matching money for $47 million in federal money recently released by President Ford.

Jackson said a layoff of 607 employees over the past two months had saved the department about $300,000 each pay period, but he claimed the money situation was still too tight to permit the hiring of any student summer help.

"The priority of this department will be maintenance and operation," he said.

A 10-year master plan, prepared during the previous administration, supported the current position that few, if any, new highway or mass transit projects could be undertaken without a new source of revenue.

CIA Plotting To Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential panel on CIA domestic activities is investigating whether the agency withheld information from the Warren Commission to cover up CIA involvement in an alleged plot to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, according to informed sources.

David W. Belin, staff director of the CIA panel headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, has demanded in a series of letters to the agency that it reveal all its contacts with would-be Castro assassins, the sources said. Belin was a counsel to the Warren Commission's probe of President John F. Kennedy's slaying.

"If the agency isn't going to give full disclosure when you investigate the assassination of a president, when are you going to get full disclosure on anything?" one administration source asked. Among other tasks, the Rockefeller Commission is charged with recommending procedures for closer supervision of CIA operations.

W. David Slawson, a former Warren Commission staff member, said in a telephone interview Thursday "it would be of enormous significance" if the CIA withheld information about a plot to kill Castro.

Knowledge of CIA involvement in assassination plots could have influenced the commission's investigation of rumors that Kennedy's murder was a retaliatory act ordered by Castro, Slawson indicated.

But Slawson, who investigated all evidence linking Lee Harvey Oswald to alleged foreign conspiracies, said the possibility that the agency was involved in a plot to kill Castro "never occurred to anyone" on the Warren Commission.

Since then, there have been numerous reports of CIA involvement in attempts to assassinate Castro, all denied by agency officials. However, one agency source has confirmed as "basically accurate" a 1971 report by columnist Jack Anderson that the CIA recruited underworld figure John Roselli to arrange Castro's assassination.

Reds Near Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong closed in today on the Saigon government's last enclave on the central coast, jabbed at the edges of Saigon and shelled the big Bien Hoa air base 15 miles northeast of Saigon again.

There were still no indications that a North Vietnamese drive on Saigon had begun, but analysts predicted it was only a matter of time before the Communists consolidate their forces and attack.

Military sources said North Vietnamese troops mounted fierce attacks on Phan Thiet, a coastal city 100 miles east of Saigon and the capital of Binh Thuan province. They said radio contact between Phan Thiet and four district towns was lost, indicating they had been taken over by the Communists.

Phan Thiet and Phan Rang, 150 miles northeast of Saigon, were bypassed by the advancing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong when the Saigon forces fled from the northern and central parts of South Vietnam. Apparently the Communists did not have sufficient forces in the area to take them over. The Saigon command announced the loss of Phan Rang on Wednesday.

The situation in Cambodia was unknown. Radio Phnom Penh, now in the hands of the victorious Khmer Rouge, broadcast propaganda statements and reruns of accounts of the taking of the Cambodian capital Thursday. Commercial communication channels were not open.

Sources in Bangkok said Premier Long Boret, the head of the fallen Cambodian government, was taken into custody Thursday as he was trying to flee from Phnom Penh by helicopter. Earlier reports said he had escaped to Kompong Chhnang, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Another leading member of the former government, Lt. Gen. Sak Suthsakhan, was reported to have escaped by helicopter to Utopao air base, in southern Thailand. He was Long Boret's defense minister and the president of an "emergency supreme committee" formed last week.

Ford Studies Guidelines For Utilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford probably will soon announce a set of national voluntary guidelines to assist electric utilities in getting higher electric rates in certain instances.

In disclosing this approach, an administration official said Thursday that Ford's advisers have just about given up any hope that Congress would approve proposals to make rate increases mandatory in some cases.

Congressional resistance was said to stem from the unpopularity of forcing higher electrical rates.

The voluntary guidelines would represent a major switch from the approach Ford advocated in his State of the Union speech Jan. 15 when he asked Congress to approve measures making rate hikes mandatory in some cases.

The administration source also said most, if not all, proposals for direct federal subsidies to hard-pressed utilities also probably will be rejected.

One that might be kept alive is a plan to establish a Utilities Finance Corporation to buy up certain stock of utilities in extreme financial difficulty. But even this device would be set up only if all else failed, the source said.

Ford's original mandatory proposals to help utilities would have increased electric rates to consumers by an average of 13 per cent, according to administration sources.

In addition to congressional reluctance, Ford's mandatory proposals encountered resistance among state officials who set utility rates.

"It isn't getting support because it does require an increase in electric rates," said the administration source, although he added he feels that higher rates are essential in many cases to justify new investment in electric capacity.

A utility industry group, the National Electric Reliability Council, issued a report earlier this week saying that recent cancellations of power plant projects could lead to some power rationing in the future.

The voluntary recommendations urged by Ford's advisers for state utility commissions and legislatures to follow in setting electric rates include the proposal that electric utilities earn a profit of between 13 and 15 per cent of their investment, up from about 11 per cent at present. Other recommendations would include many of Ford's legislative proposals.

revolutionary politburo told a news conference in Paris that there will be some trials in Phnom Penh, but "we will judge in a humane way. You've seen that there is no bloodbath in Phnom Penh," he said.

South Vietnamese officials expressed bitterness over the U.S. Senate Armed Services Committee's rejection of President Ford's request for $722 million in additional military aid for the Saigon government. "We disposed of it, and that's it," said the chairman of the committee, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. But other committees were still working on legislation to provide humanitarian aid.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., said South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bac and Saigon's ambassador to Washington, Tran Kim Phuong, told him their government was willing to negotiate a political settlement "without any preconditions." But this in effect posed a condition unacceptable to the Communists, who say they will not negotiate unless President Nguyen Van Thieu is removed.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger blasted the Soviet Union and China for their support of the North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

John Connally Wins Acquittal

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally says he hopes to resume his political life in some form following his acquittal on bribery charges.

"I hope as long as I live I never lose the desire to participate in political affairs," said the former treasury secretary and one-time presidential prospect.

"Now in what role, in what capacity, in what way it will be done, I don't know. I'm not about to describe it today, or even in the next few days or next week," he said.

Connally spoke to newsmen outside federal court Thursday evening just minutes after a jury found him innocent of charges that he took two $5,000 payoffs for helping dairymen by urging higher milk price supports in 1971.

The prosecution's case against him had been based primarily on the testimony of Jake Jacobsen, a former lawyer for the dairymen, who said he paid Connally the money. Jacobsen had admitted to the jury that he perjured himself in testifying about the case in other forums.

Connally was reading a Bible when the jury filed into the courtroom after deliberating for six hours. He sat pokerfaced as the jury foreman announced the verdict of "not guilty." Then Connally beamed, embraced his wife Nell and shook hands with his lawyer Edward Bennett Williams. Connally's daughter Sharon wept with happiness.

He said he had no immediate plans except to return to Texas. "We haven't thought beyond this moment" he said.

Outside, he spoke to newsmen for the first time since the trial began April 1.

Did he feel vindicated? "I don't suppose I think of it so much as a vindication," he said. "I'm happy. Nell's happy. The children are. All of the family is. I suppose we never felt there could be any outcome but this ... I thought they made us worry about it for some time here today, but I'm happy about it."

Connally, a Democrat before he switched to the Republican party in 1973, had been considered a possible presidential contender. Before his indictment last year he was in constant demand for appearances at GOP fund-raising events around the country.

Had the indictment and trial derailed his presidential hopes? "Well, I don't know and I haven't given any thought to it, very frankly," he said. "I won't think about it for some time. I don't have a great deal more to say to you. At some later time I will have some more to say to you."

Still pending against Connally were two charges of making false statements to a grand jury and a charge of conspiracy to cover up the alleged bribes.

A spokesman for the Watergate Special Prosecution Force would give no immediate comment Thursday on whether these charges would now be pressed or dropped. The charges were part of the original indictment against Connally, but were severed for a separate trial by Chief U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart.

Governor Gets Pie In The Face

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pie smackers had a field day on two campuses, scoring direct hits on a governor and a college president.

Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton was smacked Thursday with a lemon meringue pie at the University of Tennessee in Chattanooga and President Roger Howell Jr. of Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, was plastered by three cream pies, flavor unknown.

Blanton had just spoken to a luncheon group when he got a dessert he didn't request.

"It was nothing personal. It was the oldest vaudeville gag in the world," said political science student Paul E. Scates, the pie thrower. "The whole thing was intended to be humorous."

"Well, it wasn't very funny, sonny," said state Highway Patrol Capt. Billy Parker as he wrestled Scates to the ground.

Blanton, stunned at first, broke into a grin after realizing what had happened. He said later he was so surprised he forgot to taste the pie. He also said he had no plans to prosecute Scates, who was arrested, charged with assault and later released on $500 bond.

Contacted later, Scates said, "I'm in the process now of writing a letter of apology to the governor."

In Brunswick, the infamous "Bowdoin Baker" and his cohorts scored the biggest hit of their career, a triple hitter on Howell at high noon Thursday as he walked from the administration building to his home.

The incident was described by students as the climax of a pie-throwing spree in which the "Baker," who is a student in disguise, and his colleagues threw mushy pies in the faces of more than 40 students and faculty members.

The Bowdoin campus has been enlivened during the past two weeks by flying pies aimed at raising money for Vietnamese orphans.

A $50 "contract" on Howell was the largest ever made by the "Baker" and his hit men. Past standard fees ranged between $2 and $4 for a student victim to $25 for a professor.

Nearly 100 students were gathered outside the student union as the pie-throwing combine approached Howell from various directions.

Wearing ski masks, goggles, ponchos and sneakers, the "Baker" and his gang fired pies in rapid succession.

Managing a smile as he wiped the goo from his face, Howell flashed a thumbs-up sign to the crowd.

Chance of showers Saturday and turning cooler, high, upper 60s. Probability of precipitation, 60 per cent today, 80 per cent tonight and 50 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Thursday were: high, 69; low, 57.

The trackage that has drawn the most interest is a portion of line from Circleville to Morrow near Cincinnati. The Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Detroit, Toledo & Ironton have each put in a word to buy the line.

The DT&I, which filed earliest, has long wanted to have its own line to the Cincinnati area to build its share of the Cincinnati-Detroit freight business.

The C&O and N&W have asked for that stretch and for a continuation of the line from Circleville to Bremen in Fairfield County.

The Railway Association, in its preliminary plans for reorganizing the Penn Central and other bankrupt roads in the East and Midwest, made several low-volume branches available to solvent roads.

The C&O also has letters of interests in for:

—A line from Marietta north through Cambridge and Newcomerstown to New Philadelphia and Dover.

—A line in Knox County from Mount Vernon northeast to Howard.

—A line from Bellefontaine in Logan County to St. Marys in Auglaize County.

—A line from Cold Springs, a junction west of Springfield, through Troy and to Arcanum near the Ohio-Indiana border.

The DT&I also has a letter of interest filed on a line from Yellow Springs to Springfield.

Still in limbo in the federal railway reorganization plan is a line from Columbus to Bremen, which the Railway Association recommended not be included in ConRail.

The lines services two major freight generation operations in Columbus the Landmark elevator and a giant J.C. Penney Co. warehouse and the Crown Zellerbach Co. at Baltimore.

In testimony last month on the preliminary plan, Penney officials said the line would show a profit for the ConRail, the name given to the proposed government-back railway system.

Federal officials have indicated this week the recommendation on the line could change.

Final plans for ConRail are expected to be presented by late July.

Set Arraignment In Cookie Theft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — William Howard Newman, 40, Cincinnati, was scheduled to appear before a U.S. Magistrate in connection with the theft April 5 of a tractor-trailer loaded with 33,000 pounds of cookies belonging to the Keebler Co.

Newman was charged by the FBI Thursday on a Federal complaint. He was first picked up on a drunk charge by Indianapolis police who later found the tractor trailer, the FBI said.

The truck was reported stolen from the terminal of the Eagle Express Co. near downtown Cincinnati.

The FBI said Newman was charged with theft from interstate shipment. The cookies were returned to the Keebler Co., the FBI said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were lower today in active trading as selling set in after a week-long buying binge.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which soared more than 75 points in the last eight sessions, dropped 2.58 to 816.88 at noon in a moderate wave of profit taking.

Prices of about half the 1,575 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange were lower, a quarter were unchanged and about a quarter were higher.

The broad-based NYSE composite index was down .19 to 46.01 and the American Stock Exchange market-value index fell .12 to 83.68 at noon.

Brokers said the morning decline, which saw the Dow off as much as 8 points, was due to normal profit taking after the heavy gains of the past week.

Polaroid topped the active list again today, gaining 2% to 31% before the stock was halted due to a glut of incoming orders.

On Thursday, Polaroid shot up 2% points in heavy trading after the company reported 25 cents-per-share, first-quarter earnings which was higher than Wall Street had expected.

Vocational Board Re-Employs Staff

The Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational Board of Education met Thursday night to re-employ the teaching staff at the center. Superintendent Paul Hydel said this morning that all the teaching personnel had been re-employed for the 1975-76 school year. The board also employed Keith Gilmore to teach American Government and American History. He is formerly of the Zane Trace School District.

In other business, the board heard a report from the architect on the vocational building addition. A tentative date of June 1 was established for completion of that construction job.

The board also approved a resolution accepting a settlement from Knowlton Construction Company in the amount of $2300 for damages due to discoloration of Torginal flooring in some of the areas of the building.

Authorization as given by the board for a summer building maintenance program.

The purchase of an additional telephone switchboard module was approved. The module will permit expansion of the building's internal telephone system.

Application for state funds was approved by the board for the development of a joint vocational school remedial teaching center and services.

Along this line, approval was also given for a home economics multimedia center to be established at the vocational center with the state funds. This will be an additional service which the vocational center will provide for the home economics teachers in the area.

The program would include a collection of materials, paid for by the state, which would be available to all the home economics teachers from the 11 participating school districts. The program will be housed in and operated from the vocational school.

A preliminary review of the plans for the development of an outdoor horticulture lab and other uses of the surplus site acreage was presented to the board by the agriculture department. A committee from the board members was appointed to work with the agriculture department to develop the plans.

Under purchasing, the board approved the purchase of cosmetology kits from the Henry Kiser Corporation of New York. Furniture for the Tecumseh Room was approved for purchase from the Ebenhack Company of Chillicothe. There were three bids submitted to the board on the furniture and Ebenhack's low bid was accepted.

Ray Pack, coordinator of guidance, reported to the board on the registration for the 1975-76 school year. He indicated that 474 students are currently enrolled for junior courses next year. Ten of the programs are currently filled. They are Agricultural and Industrial Equipment, Accounting and Computing, Clerical Services, Clerk-Typists, Auto Body, Auto Mechanics, Carpentry, Cosmetology, Diversified Health and Welding.

The vocational center officials estimate a student enrollment of approximately 900 for the coming year. There are approximately 460 currently enrolled in programs offered this year.

Old North Church Readied For Observance By Ford

BOSTON (AP) — Old North Church was tidied up for an observance by President Ford today of the 200th anniversary of two lantern flashes that signaled the beginning of the war of independence.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for an antibusing group said the organization planned a demonstration to thank Ford for reservations he expressed last fall about court-ordered busing to integrate Boston schools.

The imposing Old North Church, a brick structure now hemmed in by tenements on narrow Salem Street in the predominantly Italian North End, was used as a signal post on April 18, 1775, to alert Paul Revere that British soldiers were crossing the Charles River for a march on Concord. Revere raced through Middlesex County and warned farmers of the approaching footsoldiers.

In Lexington, where the first shots of the war were fired, and in Concord, where the British searched for patriot ammunition, townspeople have been hanging up red, white and blue bunting and preparing portable facilities for the anticipated arrival of thousands of tourists on Saturday.

About 400 Boston police were expected to be outside Old North at 8 p.m. EDT, when Ford is expected to arrive after a meeting in Concord, N.H.

The President was scheduled to give a 20-minute speech and help light two lanterns that would be carried up into the church's white wooden spire during the traditional ceremony.

Ford also planned to light a third lantern that will symbolize a renewed flame of liberty.

About 500 persons, many of them dressed in colorful colonial militia uniforms, were expected to fill the 252-year-old Episcopal church.

A spokesman at the South Boston Information Center, an antibusing organization, said a demonstration was being set up outside the church to thank the President for remarks before a news conference last October. Ford said a court-ordered integration plan which required busing "was not the best solution to quality education in Boston."

"We plan to give him a very large welcome," the spokesman said. "All signs should be in good taste. They should say things like 'Welcome Mr. President' and 'Thank you for your support.'"

Boston schools have been disrupted by sporadic racial violence over the past year.

Bank Call Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controller of currency today issued a call for reports on conditions of national banks as of the close of business Wednesday, April 16.

Vandalism Continues In County

Vandalism in the county continues as three residents were victims of the criminal act Wednesday and Thursday.

Thirty-five windows, valued at $276, were broken by vandals at the C. W. Sykes, residence, Route 5.

The vandals broke the windows at the house located on the Morris-Salem and Ludwig Dresbach Roads sometime between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

Sheriff's Deputy Billy Huffman investigated the report.

Patricia Mock, East Street in New Holland, reported to Deputy James Dixon that someone broke the windshield of her 1974 auto sometime Thursday.

The vandals broke the windshield of the vehicle, parked at the rear of the residence, by using a hammer.

A window, 3-feet by 5-feet, was broken by vandals at the Westfall High School between the hours of 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 6:30 p.m. today.

Robert Debo, WHS principal, valued the window at $150.

Lottery Approved By City

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — City officials have endorsed the nation's first nongovernment lottery in hopes it will solve some money problems and help rejuvenate a deteriorating downtown. However, some legal obstacles must be hurdled.

The top weekly prize will be $50,000 and officials estimate both the city and a nonprofit corporation running the lottery will receive about $1 million a year in profits.

Backers hope to be selling 50-cent tickets by July 1. In addition to the top prize, there also will be smaller prizes each week.

Half of the proceeds will go to the city for whatever use the city council decides and the other half will go to the nonprofit corporation, which plans several downtown improvements.

Although city council approval was not required by law, the officials met on Tuesday and adopted a resolution approving implementation of the lottery.

There was little opposition to the lottery, but since the resolution's passage legal problems have arisen.

Attorney Martin Cannon says he is planning a court challenge on grounds that state statutes on lotteries are unconstitutional. Nebraska state law permits lotteries for community betterment.

The latest legal barrier arose Thursday when a federal official said lottery tickets sold by nongovernment groups could not legally cross state lines, not even to neighboring Council Bluffs, Iowa, just across the Missouri River.

Coal Miners Being Urged To Stay Home

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP) — United Mine Workers officials Thursday asked striking miners in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia to keep away from mines and to refrain from picketing.

The appeal was issued by UMW national headquarters in Washington and the union's District 6 office in Bellaire.

District 6 Vice President Art Nelms said the request was issued because of threats of violence to the miners.

Meanwhile, a federal judge in Elkins, W.Va., Thursday found the UMW and its District 6 in contempt of a March 27 temporary restraining order granted to the Consolidation Coal Co.

Judge Robert E. Maxwell ordered the union to get employees of three Consolidation mines in the West Virginia Panhandle back to work by 8 a.m. today or be liable for fines of up to $135,000 per day.

The judge said he would fine the international union $10,000 and District 6 $5,000 for each shift at each mine that doesn't work.

All deep coal mines in the two-state region continued closed for the second consecutive day, idling an estimated 9,000 miners.

Union officials said negotiation sessions were expected to begin in Washington between the UMW and officials of Consolidation Coal Co.'s Rose Valley mine.

Last Sunday, 26 Rose Valley miners were suspended for alleged illegal picketing activities.

Roving pickets protesting the action forced the closing of several mines and sparked the current series of shut-downs which have plagued the area since early March.

It was very nice of the folks in Des Moines, Tacoma, Atlanta, Pittsburgh and all points in between to help pay the bill for Washington, D. C.'s plush subway. One may assume it is plush because the latest cost estimate is $4.5 billion, almost twice the original estimate of $2.5 billion.

Along with assorted strikes, environmental in pact studies and other hazards of modern construction, the subway may have to be trimmed from the planned 98 miles to only 40. Additional financing is being sought to complete the project, with the interesting formula of 20 per cent to be provided by the people who live and work in Washington and 80 per cent by the federal Treasury.

Home rule came to Washington a time back, but it has not affected the plums Congress and its staff members continually provide for themselves. It is significant that no hue and cry can be heard from the nation's capital as to why the project, expensive enough to begin with, now should be running so far over estimates.

Transportation is a problem in many American cities. It is rubbing the noses of those who have to do without to be paying for such a grand underground memorial many outside Washington will never see and none will be thanked for.

Red China's Inhibited Exhibit

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — When "The Exhibition of Archaeological Finds of the People's Republic of China" left Dulles International Airport (Washington) for Kansas City in two Boeing 707s the other day, Chinese and American security men would permit no pictures nor answer any questions. It's all very spooky.

The Sinologists at the Nelson Gallery-Atkins Museum in K.C. are now in the throes of unpacking the 385 intricately designed crates which contain artifacts representing more than half a million years of Chinese history. They have been given from nine to 14 days to get the pieces ready for exhibition, all under the sharp scrutiny of the Chinese in charge of an extraordinary exhibition that has been seen over the past year in Paris, London, Vienna, Stockholm and Washington. (After Kansas City, it will probably be flown into San Francisco before being returned to Peking; but the Chinese guardians of it refuse to confirm the San Francisco date.)

As far as is known, this is the first antiquity treasure trove insured by the United States government. We have covered it for $50 million, which seems a piddling sum when one considered the possible theft or destruction of the head bones of Lantian Man (a cousin of Peking Man) who flourished 600,000 years ago, or Princess Tou Wan who went to her eternal reward in a suit of 2,160 chunks of jade stitched together with gold threads two thousand years before Christ.

By comparison, Dr. Armand Hammer insured the 40-odd paintings of the French Impressionists and post-Impressionists which he exhibited in the U.S. two years ago — after they had lain fallow in Leningrad's Hermitage and Moscow's Pushkin museums for decades — for $25 million.

The Archdiocese of New York insured Michelangelo's incomparable Pieta for $10 million when it was shipped and trucked from St. Peter's in Rome to the last New York World's Fair.

It took the better part of two weeks to fold the tents on the Chinese exhibition at the National Gallery in Washington and silently slip away to Dulles. Each piece had to be fitted into its form-fitting nook in its special packing case, after being photographed by the Chinese security people; as each case was locked, there were more photographs of the case itself. Then the case was placed in a larger "traveling" box, which was in turn stuffed with wood shavings and other absorbents so as to protect it in case of a bump.

At Nelson, everything had to be re-photographed to check with the earlier photographs. Can't take a chance that somebody might have slipped into the cargo department of a 707 at 38,000 feet, opened the outer and inner cases of the priceless "Flying Horse of Kansu" and substituted Sgt. Snorkel's Bull dog. Right?

The inscrutable Chinese security men insisted that the two jets that carried the ten tons of irreplaceable treasures be separated — so far as their takeoffs were concerned — by one hour. Each plane carried two Chinese guards and two U.S. sky marshals. Transportation from the Kansas City airport to the museum was by especially padded truck and under police protection. Personnel charged with unpacking and putting back together this huge Chinese jigsaw were told to wear tennis shoes and short-sleeved shirts — to guard against slipping into or snagging or chipping a treasure.

Those who will take in the Kansas City Showing, as was the case elsewhere, must not bring cameras into the exhibition area. Overcoats, briefcases and umbrellas must be checked at the door. The exhibit lasts until June 8.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Little more than a decade ago the annual meeting was a festive occasion, one of the corporate rites of spring: homecoming, the annual get-together for sandwiches, refreshments and conversation.

U.S. Steel erected beautifully striped canopies on the lawn of an engineering school and, unless you were informed or up close, you just couldn't tell the annual meeting from the graduation exercise.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the biggest stockholder family of all, rented an armory and served food for its guests — strike that, its common stock owners.

Controversy, quite understandably, seldom intruded into the atmosphere of such excellent assemblages. It just wasn't nice; it was poor etiquette.

It was all pro forma anyway, tightly scheduled and programmed. All the officers involved had their reports ready. All the real business had already been enacted. Management always had the votes to do what it wished.

The hypocrisy and cost and nuisance of it all began getting to some executives, and there developed a tendency to move the annual meeting out of the big cities into some outlying, less-populated, harder-to-reach areas.

Sometimes this was done in order to meet some of the stockholders who couldn't make it to the home city. After all, shareholders were spread about the nation, not concentrated in the headquarters city.

Quite often, too, the reason was to escape stockholders, who were tending to become a bit more critical.

Some companies even toyed with the notion of giving up the annual meeting, and to their surprise they found that under the incorporation rules of some states you didn't need an annual get-together. But the New York Stock Exchange insisted on a continuance of the practice.

The annual meeting was changing. Corporate democracy was being sold to the American people and the number of shareholders was rising swiftly, from about 13 million at the beginning of the '60s to 30 million at the close of the decade.

The atmosphere wasn't conducive to the old way of doing things. How can you serve box lunches to so many people? How can you afford them?

Stockholders answered those questions to some degree. They didn't attend. So long as management made money for them they didn't care. And you may recall that the '60s were very profitable until the decade waned.

A new group began making a nuisance of itself. The social dogooder, the environmentalists and various activists began prodding the corporation to give an account of itself as a resident and citizen.

Even more was being asked. Many people who admired the corporate way of getting things done were appalled at how little was being done except to make money. They wanted corporations to take on added duties.

Now we have reached another stage. Scattered throughout the stockholder population there is a growing feeling that managers must be made more accountable. A feeling grows that there is a great management ripoff.

That feeling was expressed this week at the Chrysler Corp. annual meeting, and earlier at the Celanese meeting. Why, it was asked, does the good fortune of the executive continue while that of the stockholder and employee deteriorates?

Why do some corporate officers own very few shares of their company's stock? Why do others earn huge salaries and collect bonuses — performance bonuses they are sometimes called — even though the company's earnings are down? Why are some officers permitted to write contracts continuing their incomes, as consultants, after they retire? Why are officers granted personal loans?

This is the atmosphere of the annual meeting, circa 1975. How long ago the old days seem.

Washington Patrol Training 2 Women

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — For the first time in its history the Washington State Patrol has permitted two women to enter a cadet-training class.

The women are Kathy Swanson of Seattle and Carol Pemberton of Tacoma. Both have been employed by the patrol. Miss Swanson has been working as a weight control cadet at the South Scale House between Seattle and Tacoma while Miss Pemberton has been a radio dispatcher.

Col. N.E. Hair of the WSP said the two were the first women to enter the academy because "they are the first to meet our requirements."

Hair said if the women successfully complete the 14-week training course at the academy they will be commissioned as troopers in the patrol and will assume regular duties, including highway patrol.

"Animals seem to sense when a rainstorm is coming."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Gout seems to be a family characteristic. I am 26 and so far have no signs of it. Can it be prevented? Is gout in the rheumatism family?

Mr. T. M., Penn.

Dear Mr. M.:

There does seem to be some hereditary or family tendency towards gout.

Gout is a peculiar disorder and disturbance in the manufacture and elimination of uric acid. For reasons that are still not entirely clear to doctors and scientists, some people tend to accumulate uric acid in the blood. When this level is high, symptoms of gout are likely to appear.

When it is determined that there is a tendency to gout or an increase of uric acid in the blood, certain foods should be reduced or avoided. These foods are the ones known to be high in purine, a substance from which uric acid is derived.

Purines are especially high in anchovies, liver, sweetbreads, brains, gravies, and alcohol. Asparagus, cauliflower and lentils, too, have a slightly higher purine content.

Early evidence of gout can be determined by a study of the blood. High levels of uric acid are the determining factor if a gouty tendency is present.

There are now a number of excellent drugs which can reduce uric acid levels in the blood. One drug, probenecid, is used to encourage the elimination of uric acid by way of the urine.

Once a gouty condition is discovered, this drug can be taken in a preventive way for many years.

A new drug, allopurinol, works in a different way. This one prevents the change of purine into uric acid.

Occasionally, both drugs are used at the same time, depending on the severity of the condition.

Under a doctor's direction, these drugs can be manipulated, depending on the concentration of uric acid in the blood.

The symptoms of gout in its early phases may indeed be confused with rheumatism, neuralgia, bursitis and even arthritis. The popular impression that gout affects only the big toe is false. Another misconception about gout is that it is a status symbol disease associated with the rich and overindulged sector of society. Gout can occur at all social and economic levels.

At The Gallows

By JIM BISHOP

Three men. One aspired to be a hero. One longed to be a playwright. The third knew that someday he would be an author. In early 1916, they were strangers. Within five years, two would watch one die without pity.

Carl Wanderer was a young Chicago butcher. At the age of 27, he had his own shop. It earned a profit. But Carl was unhappy. Customers poked him with jokes about his receding hair line and his German upbringing. Some said, "Hoch der Kaiser!", and laughed.

Carl laughed, too. He was afraid of a fist fight. When he read that Pancho Villa had come up from Mexico and raided an American town, Mr. Wanderer saw his great opportunity. He closed the butcher shop and enlisted to fight with General John J. Pershing.

On the other side of Chicago, young Charles MacArthur was a reporter on the Examiner. His fights were confined to the city editor. Charlie wanted more important assignments. To hell with the society teas. Someday, he said, he would write plays. His editor shrugged.

A few blocks away, Ben Hecht held down a typewriter at the Daily News. He longed to write fat books of deep humanities.

Three strangers. Wanderer realized his ambition. He fought Villa's irregulars up and down the Rio Grande. He sat a cavalry horse and was decorated for bravery under fire. Carl was a hero.

When he returned to Chicago, the United States proclaimed war on Imperial Germany. The son of Germans enlisted again. By the time he reached France, Carl was a second lieutenant in the cavalry. The timid butcher braved German machine gun fire and had horses shot from under him.

Wanderer returned to Chicago laden with decorations. The butcher shop was dull work, but no one made fun of his lack of hair or his German ancestry. He showed his medals and his black .45 automatic.

His mother suggested that, at age 32, he should be married. In the manner of a soldier obeying a field order, he scouted among women and found Ruth Johnson, a young brunette. Carl married her with the same detached manner he used in cutting sides of beef.

They lived with her parents. Hecht was covering criminal court, trying to think of a book to write. MacArthur, who had served with the field artillery, was writing a thing called "The Cannoneers Have Hairy Ears."

January, 1921, was cold in Chicago. Icy wind from Lake Michigan swirled drifting snow into ice cream cones and plastered tall buildings with a poor coat of white paint. Ruth said she was pregnant. Carl nodded absently. "Yes," he said. "One must expect..."

In June, Mrs. Wanderer was big and awkward. The dutiful husband took her to a movie on June 21st. As always, he stuck his .45 automatic inside his belt. Without it he might forget he was a hero.

At 10:30, they entered the dark vestibule of their apartment house. A man's voice said, "Don't turn on the light." The voice uttered bad words. In the darkness, a gun flashed like summer lightning.

Carl was a hero. He pulled his gun. There were 14 explosions and the music of shattering glass. By the time the light was turned on, Carl Wanderer was screaming, shaking a dead man dressed as a beggar. Ruth Wanderer died mumbling, "My baby... my baby..."

Carl Wanderer made page one as a hero once more. A tragic one. On the Daily News, Hecht kept looking at a photo of two .45 automatics. One was found on the bum. The other belonged to Carl Hecht wondered what was wrong with the picture.

MacArthur was impressed by the same photo. He phoned the Colt Arms Company and identified the stranger's gun as having been sold to a telephone mechanic in Chicago. Charlie paid him a visit. "Oh," he said, "that gun. I sold it years ago to a postman named Fred Wanderer." Charlie tracked Wanderer's cousin. The man seemed ill. "I loaned that to Carl the day of the shooting," he said.

Ben Hecht visited the grieving hero. They chatted. Later the reporter used the bathroom. He found a lacy robe. In one pocket were women's stockings, face rouge and lipstick. In the other were a packet of love letters. He jammed them in his jacket.

The rival reporters arrived at police headquarters at the same time. Charlie told the story of the gun. Ben showed the makeup and the letters. The hero was arrested. He was indignant.

Hecht said, "Carl, your boyfriend will be here in a few minutes." Carl shrieked, "No! No!" He confessed. He had been a homosexual all the way and hated women. He had hired a bum from The Loop for $20 to hide in the hallway and fake a holdup.

The hero killed his wife and the only witness. Hecht, MacArthur and Carl met at the gallows. As the rope went around his neck, the hero burst into tears and sang, "Dear Old Pal..."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Gout seems to be a family characteristic. I am 26 and so far have no signs of it. Can it be prevented? Is gout in the rheumatism family?

Mr. T. M., Penn.

Dear Mr. M.:

There does seem to be some hereditary or family tendency towards gout.

Gout is a peculiar disorder and disturbance in the manufacture and elimination of uric acid. For reasons that are still not entirely clear to doctors and scientists, some people tend to accumulate uric acid in the blood. When this level is high, symptoms of gout are likely to appear.

When it is determined that there is a tendency to gout or an increase of uric acid in the blood, certain foods should be reduced or avoided. These foods are the ones known to be high in purine, a substance from which uric acid is derived.

Purines are especially high in anchovies, liver, sweetbreads, brains, gravies, and alcohol. Asparagus, cauliflower and lentils, too, have a slightly higher purine content.

Early evidence of gout can be determined by a study of the blood. High levels of uric acid are the determining factor if a gouty tendency is present.

There are now a number of excellent drugs which can reduce uric acid levels in the blood. One drug, probenecid, is used to encourage the elimination of uric acid by way of the urine.

Once a gouty condition is discovered, this drug can be taken in a preventive way for many years.

A new drug, allopurinol, works in a different way. This one prevents the change of purine into uric acid.

Occasionally, both drugs are used at the same time, depending on the severity of the condition.

Under a doctor's direction, these drugs can be manipulated, depending on the concentration of uric acid in the blood.

The symptoms of gout in its early phases may indeed be confused with rheumatism, neuralgia, bursitis and even arthritis. The popular impression that gout affects only the big toe is false. Another misconception about gout is that it is a status symbol disease associated with the rich and overindulged sector of society. Gout can occur at all social and economic levels.

At The Gallows

By JIM BISHOP

Three men. One aspired to be a hero. One longed to be a playwright. The third knew that someday he would be an author. In early 1916, they were strangers. Within five years, two would watch one die without pity.

Carl Wanderer was a young Chicago butcher. At the age of 27, he had his own shop. It earned a profit. But Carl was unhappy. Customers poked him with jokes about his receding hair line and his German upbringing. Some said, "Hoch der Kaiser!", and laughed.

Carl laughed, too. He was afraid of a fist fight. When he read that Pancho Villa had come up from Mexico and raided an American town, Mr. Wanderer saw his great opportunity. He closed the butcher shop and enlisted to fight with General John J. Pershing.

On the other side of Chicago, young Charles MacArthur was a reporter on the Examiner. His fights were confined to the city editor. Charlie wanted more important assignments. To hell with the society teas. Someday, he said, he would write plays. His editor shrugged.

A few blocks away, Ben Hecht held down a typewriter at the Daily News. He longed to write fat books of deep humanities.

Three strangers. Wanderer realized his ambition. He fought Villa's irregulars up and down the Rio Grande. He sat a cavalry horse and was decorated for bravery under fire. Carl was a hero.

When he returned to Chicago, the United States proclaimed war on Imperial Germany. The son of Germans enlisted again. By the time he reached France, Carl was a second lieutenant in the cavalry. The timid butcher braved German machine gun fire and had horses shot from under him.

Wanderer returned to Chicago laden with decorations. The butcher shop was dull work, but no one made fun of his lack of hair or his German ancestry. He showed his medals and his black .45 automatic.

His mother suggested that, at age 32, he should be married. In the manner of a soldier obeying a field order, he scouted among women and found Ruth Johnson, a young brunette. Carl married her with the same detached manner he used in cutting sides of beef.

They lived with her parents. Hecht was covering criminal court, trying to think of a book to write. MacArthur, who had served with the field artillery, was writing a thing called "The Cannoneers Have Hairy Ears."

January, 1921, was cold in Chicago. Icy wind from Lake Michigan swirled drifting snow into ice cream cones and plastered tall buildings with a poor coat of white paint. Ruth said she was pregnant. Carl nodded absentmindedly. "Yes," he said. "One must expect..."

In June, Mrs. Wanderer was big and awkward. The dutiful husband took her to a movie on June 21st. As always, he stuck his .45 automatic inside his belt. Without it he might forget he was a hero.

At 10:30, they entered the dark vestibule of their apartment house. A man's voice said, "Don't turn on the light." The voice uttered bad words. In the darkness, a gun flashed like summer lightning.

Carl was a hero. He pulled his gun. There were 14 explosions and the music of shattering glass. By the time the light was turned on, Carl Wanderer was screaming, shaking a dead man dressed as a beggar. Ruth Wanderer died mumbling, "My baby... my baby..."

Carl Wanderer made page one as a hero once more. A tragic one. On the Daily News, Hecht kept looking at a photo of two .45 automatics. One was found on the bum. The other belonged to Carl Hecht wondered what was wrong with the picture.

MacArthur was impressed by the same photo. He phoned the Colt Arms Company and identified the stranger's gun as having been sold to a telephone mechanic in Chicago. Charlie paid him a visit. "Oh," he said, "that gun. I sold it years ago to a postman named Fred Wanderer." Charlie tracked Wanderer's cousin. The man seemed ill. "I loaned that to Carl the day of the shooting," he said.

Ben Hecht visited the grieving hero. They chatted. Later the reporter used the bathroom. He found a lacy robe. In one pocket were women's stockings, face rouge and lipstick. In the other were a packet of love letters. He jammed them in his jacket.

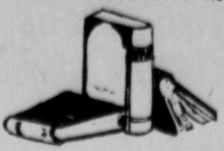

The rival reporters arrived at police headquarters at the same time. Charlie told the story of the gun. Ben showed the makeup and the letters. The hero was arrested. He was indignant.

Hecht said, "Carl, your boyfriend will be here in a few minutes." Carl shrieked, "No! No!" He confessed. He had been a homosexual all the way and hated women. He had hired a bum from The Loop for $20 to hide in the hallway and fake a holdup.

The hero killed his wife and the only witness. Hecht, MacArthur and Carl met at the gallows. As the rope went around his neck, the hero burst into tears and sang, "Dear Old Pal..."

On Books And Activities At The Library

Information Power has been the theme of National Library Week. Have you discovered this power in your Pickaway County District Public Library? If you haven't visited the library lately, take time to do it this week and see what interesting and informative reading is available FREE.

Be sure to check the record stacks in the Reference room. All types of recordings are available and this week we're adding several new albums. Fans of Edgar Allen Poe and Vincent Price will enjoy "The Gold Bug" and "The Imp Of The Perverse". Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. reads "The Flying Dutchman" and other ghost ship tales.

George Rose reads the prose and poetry of Robert Louis Stevenson while Eli Wallach reads Solzhenitsyn's "One Day In The Life Of Ivan Denisovich". Claudia McNeil is the reader on "The Autobiography Of Miss Jane Pittman."

Three albums which might serve as basis for Bicentennial programs include: "Immigrants: The American Dream Told By The Men and Women Who Lived It"; "Pioneer Women" read by Sandy Dennis and Eileen Heckart; The Benets' "A Book Of Americans" read by Maureen Stapleton and Pat Hingle.

A potpourri of non-fiction titles should provide interesting reading in several areas. Devotees of the Bermuda Triangle mystery have a new angle to consider. Lawrence D. Kusche has written a new book on the subject entitled "The Bermuda Triangle Solved."

If lost treasures intrigue you, be sure to read "Lost Treasures Of The West" by Brad Williams and Choral Pepper. The tales surrounding the lost treasure hunters are as interesting as the treasure hunters themselves. If your interest goes farther back than the American West, you'll find fascinating mystery in a new book by Mildred Pace entitled "Wrapped For Eternity". It's the story of the Egyptian mummy.

"The Compleat Astrologer" by Derek and Julia Parker is a handsome and comprehensive volume that should appeal to anyone interested in the signs of the zodiac.

For a different look at the beginning of a human life, be sure to see "Birth Without Violence" by Frederick LeBoyer. Both the photos and the text express gentleness.

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Friday April 18, 1975

Girl Scout Cadette Troop Visits Gallery On Main St.

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 1132 recently toured The Gallery on Main Street in Circleville to learn about the visual arts as part of their requirements in earning The Challenge of the Arts.

Mrs. Willie Ehrlich, member of The Gallery, demonstrated proper technique of pencil drawing, charcoal, and pastel chalk, and discussed the technique of painting with oils and acrylics. She also had samples of various patterns of weaving and told how the loom is set up for each of these. The normal process used for batik was explained as well as a simpler process that does not require hot wax.

Mrs. Maggie Farthing, also a member, then demonstrated the three basic techniques used in water color painting. Silk screening was explained and the girls were told how they could make use of it in their troop. Mrs. Farthing showed some examples of pottery that had been made there, and the basic process used in working with clay was explained.

The girls then toured The Gallery which has many examples of work by local artists which are for sale.

Other women in the community have contributed to the girls knowledge of other types of art. Mrs. Patti Van Buskirk, teacher of ballet in Washington C. H., spent one evening with the girls telling how dancing began and evolved into ballet. She showed how toe shoes are constructed, worn, and cared for. In order to let the girls participate, she taught them a Yugoslavian Folk dance.

Mrs. Esther Fouts, former public school music teacher, led the girls through an experience in creative listening to music. Beginning with earliest attempts at music by primitive man, music has evolved into a complicated art form. The girls heard music from the Renaissance played on early instruments such as the clavichord and recorder and looked at pictures of these instruments. Selections from later periods were also played. Mrs. Fouts also played excerpts from Opera and Benjamin Britton's "Introduction To An Orchestra" with each instrument being featured. The evening ended with a selection on the Moog Synthesizer, and example of electronic music.

Mrs. Jackie Whitfield spent two meetings introducing the girls to the art of needlepoint. The Girl Scout emblem was adapted by and transferred to the canvass by Mrs. Whitfield. She then showed them the basic stitch and helped them as they learned to outline. Suggestions were given as to how this 5" x 7" piece could be displayed. Mrs. Whitfield also gave them many ideas for using needlepoint to personalize accessories.

Two Girl Scout film strips were shown at one meeting. One called "Creative Stitchery" described other needlecraft arts such as embroidery and crewel, and the other film strip showed art principles involved in making attractive displays.

Several girls are now working diligently on the Creative Writer Badge under the direction of Mrs. Annette Will, former high school English teacher. The rest of the troop are working on the Player-Producer Badge.

As a change of pace, the troop went winter camping for a weekend at Shagbark Lodge, Camp Kenjockety, west of Columbus. The girls enjoyed relaxing and absorbing the beauty of a winter landscape. Cooking and keeping the fire going occupied the rest of their time. They were accompanied by Mrs. Helen Spring and Mrs. Marilyn Fisher.

The girls in the troop are: Beth and Barbie Armstrong, Kathy Berrigan, Eva Blaney, Melanie Bower, Susan Crabtree, Crystal Curry, Andrea Downing, Kathy Fisher, Cheryl Hawkins, Beth Hovermale, Deana Moore, Terri Ross, Rhonda Sherrick, Ellen Simpson, and Janet Spring. The assistant leader is Mrs. Cathaline Curry.

Mrs. Tootle said the hymns selected for each book are taken from a million written in the English language. The number one favorite hymn that is sung in English is "Jesus Lover Of My Soul." First there are songs of praise and the greatest of these are based on the Psalms with the 100th being the most loved.

Every good hymn is a prayer and serves as a ready made prayer or petition for the one who sings it. "Abide With Me" is the number one prayer hymn on most lists. Most hymns are written out of some experience or incident in the author's life. The hymns of experience list contains many of the most loved such as "Nearer My God To Thee."

Hymns of Christ and the church tell the Christians story with one favorite being "The Old Rugged Cross." The last group of hymns are of action which try to stir believers into caring for others and reaching out. "Onward Christian Soldiers" is first on that list.

Refreshments were served by Reba Lee and co-hostess, Almada Hill to the following: Mrs. O. E. Barr, Mrs. Frank Barnhill Sr., Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Mrs. Ray Cundiff, Mrs. John Downs, Mrs. William Fisher, Mrs. Irene Jenkins, Mrs. Lloyd Kittle.

ROTARY GUEST—Chet McKenzie, right, introduced guest Speaker Don Fisher, left, at the Thursday Rotary meeting. Fisher is presently executive director of the Buckeye State Sheriff's Association. Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, center, is now serving as president of the same organization. Fisher spoke on gun control bills that are now in front of the state legislature. No action is anticipated this year on the bills since a number of other bills are before the body. The speaker said there should be a mandatory training period for any person purchasing a firearm. This training would be for the owner's personal safety.

Speed Limit Flaw Noted

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Racing driver Richard Petty says the relatively slow national speed limit of 55 miles an hour can be deadly.

Petty noted in a recent interview that national statistics on highway fatalities showed last February's 2,865 deaths were 19 per cent fewer than those of a year earlier.

But the total "is still way too high," the NASCAR Grand National driver said. "I believe many of them were caused by drivers who became lulled by the slower legal speed."

Petty, a member of the Goodyear

Motor Sports Club advisory board, said drivers who travel 2,000 miles a week at legal speeds in tests for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. fight boredom by keeping their heads and eyes moving. They also change posture, move the car seat, flex their hands—anything to help stay alert, he said.

Award To Be Made In Chemical Sciences

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $2,000 award will be made by the Columbus section of the American Chemical Society for outstanding achievement and promotion of chemical sciences.

The section established the award, sponsored by Ashland Chemical Co., as the major part of a development program honoring the American Chemical Society Centennial and the National Bicentennial.

Mansfield Schools Face Sanctions

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A decision by the Board of Education to terminate the contracts of 117 teachers has caused the Mansfield Education Association to invoke professional sanctions on the city school system.

The teachers will not be rehired for the next school year.

Richard High, president of MEA, said the organization will seek district, state and national sanctions as well. Leveling of sanctions is considered a professional rebuke of a school system.

The city school system has 563 teachers and 9,894 students.

Lottery Winnings Kept In Family

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Sara Jean Whittaker of Spencerville sold herself a winning ticket worth $30,000 and thus made her family a double winner in the Ohio lottery.

The 42-year-old Mrs. Whittaker, mother of five, told the television audience watching the weekly Thursday night drawing she bought the ticket at the Hastings Market, operated by her father and husband in Spencerville.

The Ohio Lottery Commission said that meant the ticket sellers would receive a $300 commission.

Big winner in the Buckeye 300 drawing was a 66-year-old retired lawyer, William E. Dunlap of East Liverpool, who took the $300,000 first prize.

Dunlap, who is retired from the Potter Savings & Loan Co., said he plans to invest his winnings in real estate.

Because there were seven contestants this week, two $30,000 winners were picked. Nancy Adams, 45, of Windham was the other $30,000 winner.

Mrs. Adams, mother of two, said she had waited a month to cash in the ticket that guaranteed her at least $15,000 in the Buckeye 300.

She said she was "in no rush. I figured I had a whole year to cash it in."

Among the four contestants collecting the minimum $15,000 was 90-year-old Grace Andrews of Dayton.

Mrs. Andrews, who has 13 grandchildren, 27 great grandchildren and three great-great grandchildren, was represented at the drawing by her daughter, Jean Jones, also of Dayton.

Other $15,000 winners included Edgar E. Stoneburner, Kingston; George E. Hasselkus, Toledo, and Dorothy C. Laigle, Canton.

Orphan Lift Sparks Church Tiff

NEW YORK (AP) — An emotion-fraught controversy, with sharp words between Church leaders in the United States and Rome, swirled this week over the hasty airlift of orphans out of South Vietnam.

"We have been and will continue to place children from Vietnam who have no one to care for them," says Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence J. Corcoran, of Washington, D.C., executive director of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

He bluntly rejected earlier criticisms by an official of the international Catholic relief organization in Rome who called the movement of orphans "deplorable and unjustified" and said the Church should shun it.

"Adoption is contrary to the cultural traditions of the Vietnamese people," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Grange, head of the Asia section of Caritas International, a federation of national Catholic relief agencies.

He charged that the process disregarded the Vietnamese emphasis on relatives and the community caring for parentless young.

However, a spokesman of a non-denominational agency, Friends of All Children, of Boulder, Colo., which has handled 330 children in 10 days, said "if they were not picked up over there they'd starve or die."

"It's a matter of life or death for them," said the spokesman, Pat Dempsey. As for the contention that foreign adoption contravenes communal traditions of the Vietnamese, she said:

"The situation in Saigon is so desperate that this is the last thing they're going to think of. It's a matter of survival for the children. It gives them an opportunity for life."

On the other hand, criticism also came from the American Friends Service Committee, of Philadelphia, which said Vietnamese cultural attitudes oppose removal of orphans, and all Vietnamese, North and South, are committed to the well-being of children.

Because of the long war, "many orphanages have sprung up and it is a recorded fact that a 'black market' in babies has also sprung up," the committee said. It said many impoverished parents have put their children in orphanages so they could eat, and added:

"It is a tragedy, compounded when some of these children are removed without express consent of their living parents. Even if the parents do consent, it is a tragedy."

Bishop Edward E. Swannstrom, head of Catholic Relief Services, the U.S. Church's overseas arm which has handled 230 Vietnamese children in two weeks, said the stepped-up movement was not a momentary affair.

"All Vietnamese orphans brought to the United States under auspices of the CRS to date were carefully selected and processed prior to the recent step-up in the American airlift," he said. He said careful screening and placement standards were followed, with the children's interests uppermost.

However, with several different agencies involved in handling orphans, some cases apparently have been loosely rushed, observers say. James Barton, a Vietnamese-speaking Quaker staff member in San Francisco, talked to a number of children brought there and says some were not actually orphans.

Miss Barton said: "When something like the Vietnam situation comes along, there always is possible exploitation."

But she emphasized her agency followed all legal and other standards and added:

"The parents here are so thrilled with their new children. The children really don't know the difference."

Triumphant Hour

I arose early today for a quiet walk in my garden.

Faraway, church bells in the valley glorified the morning. Suddenly, it seemed I saw another garden, another woman.

Orphan Lift Sparks Church Tiff

NEW YORK (AP) — An emotion-fraught controversy, with sharp words between Church leaders in the United States and Rome, swirled this week over the hasty airlift of orphans out of South Vietnam.

"We have been and will continue to place children from Vietnam who have no one to care for them," says Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence J. Corcoran, of Washington, D.C., executive director of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

He bluntly rejected earlier criticisms by an official of the international Catholic relief organization in Rome who called the movement of orphans "deplorable and unjustified" and said the Church should shun it.

"Adoption is contrary to the cultural traditions of the Vietnamese people," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Grange, head of the Asia section of Caritas International, a federation of national Catholic relief agencies.

He charged that the process disregarded the Vietnamese emphasis on relatives and the community caring for parentless young.

However, a spokesman of a non-denominational agency, Friends of All Children, of Boulder, Colo., which has handled 330 children in 10 days, said "if they were not picked up over there they'd starve or die."

"It's a matter of life or death for them," said the spokesman, Pat Dempsey. As for the contention that foreign adoption contravenes communal traditions of the Vietnamese, she said:

"The situation in Saigon is so desperate that this is the last thing they're going to think of. It's a matter of survival for the children. It gives them an opportunity for life."

On the other hand, criticism also came from the American Friends Service Committee, of Philadelphia, which said Vietnamese cultural attitudes oppose removal of orphans, and all Vietnamese, North and South, are committed to the well-being of children.

Because of the long war, "many orphanages have sprung up and it is a recorded fact that a 'black market' in babies has also sprung up," the committee said. It said many impoverished parents have put their children in orphanages so they could eat, and added: "It is a tragedy, compounded when some of these children are removed without express consent of their living parents. Even if the parents do consent, it is a tragedy."

Bishop Edward E. Swannstrom, head of Catholic Relief Services, the U.S. Church's overseas arm which has handled 230 Vietnamese children in two weeks, said the stepped-up movement was not a momentary affair.

"All Vietnamese orphans brought to the United States under auspices of the CRS to date were carefully selected and processed prior to the recent step-up in the American airlift," he said. He said careful screening and placement standards were followed, with the children's interests uppermost.

However, with several different agencies involved in handling orphans, some cases apparently have been loosely rushed, observers say. James Barton, a Vietnamese-speaking Quaker staff member in San Francisco, talked to a number of children brought there and says some were not actually orphans.

Miss Barton said: "When something like the Vietnam situation comes along, there always is possible exploitation."

But she emphasized her agency followed all legal and other standards and added:

"The parents here are so thrilled with their new children. The children really don't know the difference."

Triumphant Hour

I arose early today for a quiet walk in my garden.
Faraway, church bells in the valley glorified the morning. Suddenly, it seemed I saw another garden, another woman.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

You know, we have some really terrific folks in our Pickaway County and for me this was reaffirmed Wednesday. Feeling the pressure of too many errands to get done with too little time to do them, my world was a bit out of focus Wednesday morning but the world seemed better and brighter and more in perspective after errands were completed at our courthouse.

A relatively insignificant but necessary matter took me to the County Engineers office where I was given super nice service and I left there feeling quite confident that should there be need for a really big matter to be done it would be equally well handled.

Next it was the Title Department and my inquiry was answered graciously and courteously. Personally, I thought my questions were rather dumb and something I should probably have the sense to know (but didn't), however in the most interested manner I was given the information I needed. Nice folks, each and everyone.

All our college daughters were home for the weekend. Maria Martha Arguello, our daughter from Nicaragua who is a freshman at Mount St. Joseph at Cincy this year, and her cousin Ana Arguello, also a student at The Mount, came Friday evening and so did our Becki from OU. Popping in and out during the weekend were Mike McCain who was home from his studies at Hocking Tech. and Steve Wynn, an Otterbein froshie.

Sister-in-law Edna Easterday on whom I have learned to depend and her uno numero friend Bob Waldren were among the houseful of guests at the home of Pete and Barb Speakman were a carry-in dinner honored Johnny

Brisk, southerly winds ahead of a spring storm in the Mississippi Valley were expected to continue pumping warm, moist air across Ohio today.

Afternoon readings were to climb into the 60s and 70s.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were expected to become more numerous and frequent tonight, but temperatures were forecast to drop only into the 50s.

Cooler weather was expected to invade the state Saturday, with a few showers lingering on as a cold front advances through Ohio.

Maximum readings Saturday were expected to reach the 60s, which is still about normal for this time of year.

Skies became cloudy Thursday night and temperatures moderated considerably, with readings well above normal for this time of year.

All areas across Ohio reported minimum readings in the 60s.

A few light rain showers and thundershowers were reported by radar in the southwestern part of the state Thursday night and early this morning.

The remainder of the state got a few light sprinkles.

Speakman who has been home on leave from his Naval duties. Johnny left Sunday for Japan. The Speakmans are Chillicothe residents, however, many in this area know the family.

Niece, nephew and respective spouses drove in from Monaca, Pa. on Sunday to spend time with their Aunt Agnes Braysaw who is better known affectionately in our community as Grandma B. Vincent and Hilda Schmuck Steed and Henry and Florence Schmuck overnighted with cousins Pete and Pearl Cochenour while they were here, returning to their homes on Monday afternoon. Grandma B, whoses health has not been the best in recent months, has had another "setback." We do hope she will be feeling topnotch very soon.

We have had a letter from Ruth Shippey of Macon, Ga. along with a newspaper clipping telling about Grandma Phoebe Smiley's recent 101st birthday. The news item contained a picture taken of Grandma Smiley and how lovely she looks in it.

Anyone wishing to see the picture would be most welcome to come to our home and we will happily share.

A tea in her honor was given by the Beddingfield Garden Club members and husbands on her birthday. Ruth is a member of many years standing of this club.

In her letter Ruth related that Grandma Smiley received 107 cards as well as gifts and flowers.

On a more somber note she also wrote us that Grandma has had two falls, one on March 29 and the other April 7. No broken bones, thank goodness but she did hurt her head and back and has had to stay put. She plans to be out walking soon, though, Ruth says.

Remarkable lady, our Grandma Smiley — so is her daughter Ruth for that matter. To know them is to love them madly.

Roger and Sue Beck and youngsters Stacey and Mike of Mt. Gilead stopped by the Thompson ranch during the weekend and enjoyed a bit of visiting. Also visiting Saturday p.m. with Marvie baby and Dolly and family were friends down Vinton County way and be glory grundy gump I have forgotten their names. The fellow is a co-worker of Marvie baby's at Container, I do remember that.

Hey, all Alice Cooper fans, guess who went to Cincinnati Gardens and joined the mob to see "the star." None other than Vincent Redman and German Naranjo. Both thought it really great.

Recipes

We have received some really "luscious" sounding recipes for our Williamsport Sulphur Spring cookbook. Fact is, I think I have actually gained ten pounds just reading them. Don't forget that the deadline for submitting entries is May 1 and we want to hear from lots more of you.

Some really terrific hints have been sent, too, as well as some tremendous suggestions on what to incorporate in the book. Love the interest that has been shown thus far. Let's have more, more, more.

Speaking of weight — my darling sister-in-law has challenged me to a weight losing contest for the next month so let it go on record that I accept her challenge. Wonder what the prize for the winner will be? A real feast?

John Evans New State Fair Manager

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John F. Evans, a member of the Ohio Expositions Commission from Mechanicsburg, was named by the commission as state fair manager Thursday.

Evans, a farmer and selfservice laundry operator, succeeds Victor Lucas who resigned at the commission meeting.

The appointment followed a morning huddle by nine of the 11 commissioners with Gov. James A. Rhodes in his Statehouse office.

Following the conference, the commission members went to the fairgrounds for their official meeting. Evans then resigned his commission seat he has held since July 1964.

Walter M. Burns, a Republican from near Plain City, was named to succeed Evans.

Then Lucas said, "It is the wish of the majority of the commissioners that I resign as manager, effective May, so I will do so at this time."

However, Lucas will be retained as a consultant for 60 days at his present salary of $21,800 a year after May 1.

Lucas, a native of Greenfield, was appointed as fair manager in early 1972.

OK Tornado Safety Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House has approved 85-7 a bill to require instruction in tornado safety precautions in all Ohio primary and secondary schools.

The measure was sent to the Senate with an emergency clause to enable its enactment immediately if it is passed there and signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rep. Paul Wingard, R-40, the sponsor, said weather authorities feared a heavy tornado season during April, May, June, July and August.

"All schools in the state of Ohio could be affected," he said.

Sentiment for more instruction and safeguards against tornadoes grew after a twister caused 34 deaths and demolished several schools in Xenia just over a year ago.

Rep. Rodney H. Hughes, R-78 Huntsville, who voted against the bill, said most school officials were aware of the danger from tornadoes and "the cost of putting this on the law books is a bit silly."

Nursing Home Commissions Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Determining state policy for dealing with private nursing homes would be the goal of a nine-member nursing home advisory commission being proposed in the legislature.

Introduced Thursday with bipartisan sponsorship, the bill creates a commission consisting of members from both the public and private sectors, said the chief sponsor, Rep. William L. Mallory, D-23 Cincinnati. Joining him on the bill was Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord.

Some specific things being sought, Mallory said, include information about state payments for medical care, health and safety standards, certification of nursing homes, and the elimination of duplicating regulations.

Court To Review Damage Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to review a trial judge's decision throwing out a $50,000 jury verdict against the Mobil Oil Corp. in a suit brought by an injured workman.

The court accepted an appeal by Sam Walker, who was injured while working on a railroad spur at Mobil's chemical plant in Hamilton County on July 19, 1967.

A large rubber tube filled with chemicals fell from a silo and struck him. Walker sued Mobil, alleging negligence in securing the pipe, and a jury awarded him $50,000.

But the trial judge in the case ordered the verdict set aside. The judge said Walker had not presented sufficient evidence.

The judge's decision was upheld by the 1st District Court of Appeals.

Walker, in his appeal, contends the original verdict was correct under a legal doctrine which holds that negligence is proven when an accident could not have happened any other way.

In other rulings Thursday, the court: —Refused to review the conviction and life sentence of a teen-aged murderer from Akron, although a lower appellate court said police apparently used some deception in obtaining his confession.

The court rejected the appeal of Daniel J. Maglio, of Miami, Fla., convicted in the 1974 stabbing death of Walter L. Weyrick of Akron.

Sgt. Wes Barton of Circleville Police Department was the speaker at the Pickaway Plains Sertoma Club meeting Tuesday night.

Barton's presentation centered on the costs for the arrest and prosecution of shoplifters.

Barton noted that merchants could help thwart shoplifting by restricting patron exits for better surveillance.

upholding the conviction, agreed that he had been misled by police, but ruled that the mistake was corrected by later actions of the prosecutors.

—Let stand an 8th District Court of Appeals ruling reversing the conviction in Cleveland of William Buchanan for felonious assault.

The 8th District said Buchanan wasn't sufficiently advised of his rights before pleading guilty to the charge. The state's appeal argued that Buchanan knew his rights after sitting through a previous trial which resulted in a hung jury.

—Rejected the appeal of Joseph P. Sarli of Lake County, who argued that his murder trial was prejudiced because his defense attorney was a moonlighting prosecutor.

Sarli was represented by the law director for the City of Willoughby, who prosecutes criminal cases in municipal court.

The lower courts rejected Sarli's argument, saying he was aware of his attorney's position before the trial.

—Let stand a 9th District Court of Appeals ruling ordering the City of Elyria to grant seniority and efficiency points to a city policeman seeking promotion, even though he didn't get a passing grade on the civil service exam.

The city argued that its charter requires promotion by competitive exam. It said when an applicant scores 70 per cent, "the requisite standard of competence," on the test itself, the other factors are considered.

You know, we have some really terrific folks in our Pickaway County and for me this was reaffirmed Wednesday. Feeling the pressure of too many errands to get done with too little time to do them, my world was a bit out of focus Wednesday morning but the world seemed better and brighter and more in perspective after errands were completed at our courthouse.

A relatively insignificant but necessary matter took me to the County Engineers office where I was given super nice service and I left there feeling quite confident that should there be need for a really big matter to be done it would be equally well handled.

Next it was the Title Department and my inquiry was answered graciously and courteously. Personally, I thought my questions were rather dumb and something I should probably have the sense to know (but didn't), however in a most interested manner I was given the information I needed. Nice folks, each and every one.

All our college daughters were home for the weekend. Maria Martha Arguello, our daughter from Nicaragua who is a freshman at Mount St. Joseph at Cincy this year, and her cousin Ana Arguello, also a student at The Mount, came Friday evening and so did our Becki from OU. Popping in and out during the weekend were Mike McCain who was home from his studies at Hocking Tech. and Steve Wynn, an Otterbein froshie.

Sister-in-law Edna Easterday on whom I have learned to depend and her uno numero friend Bob Waldren were among the houseful of guests at the home of Pete and Barb Speakman were a carry-in dinner honored Johnny

Brisk, southerly winds ahead of a spring storm in the Mississippi Valley were expected to continue pumping warm, moist air across Ohio today.

Afternoon readings were to climb into the 60s and 70s.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were expected to become more numerous and frequent tonight, but temperatures were forecast to drop only into the 50s.

Cooler weather was expected to invade the state Saturday, with a few showers lingering on as a cold front advances through Ohio.

Maximum readings Saturday were expected to reach the 60s, which is still about normal for this time of year.

Skies became cloudy Thursday night and temperatures moderated considerably, with readings well above normal for this time of year.

All areas across Ohio reported minimum readings in the 60s.

French Student Writes About Class's Recent European Tour

By LIBBY GOELLER

Sixteen other students, Mrs. Paula Woodward, French teacher, and I left for Europe on March 29. The following are my observations and impressions.

March 29

The day finally arrived! We left Port Columbus at 3:45 p.m. and landed at JFK Airport at 6 p.m. At midnight we took off for England. The flight of seven and one-half hours was uneventful, except for the fact that we moved our watches ahead five hours.

March 30

We landed at Gatwick Airport and journeyed by bus to London. Although it was raining, the countryside was beautiful. I was especially amazed to see small cottages with thatched roofs. In London we saw a small "changing of the guards."

It was not the famous one that takes place at Buckingham Palace, but it was still fascinating. We also saw the major landmarks of the city, and, after a supper of sausages, we traveled by the "tube" and on foot to Buckingham Palace and Piccadilly Circus.

March 31

After a night in London, we traveled to Canterbury to visit the shrine of Thomas a Becket. I had read about it many times, and I could not believe I was actually seeing it. We then journeyed to Dover, where we boarded a ferry boat to cross the English Channel.

The weather was not bad, but I could not wait to reach dry land. We disembarked at Ostend, Belgium, and immediately boarded another bus to go to Brussels, where we spent our second night in Europe.

April 1

The morning found us enroute to Paris, where we would spend the next five days. On the way we visited the cathedral at Reims.

We arrived in Paris for a late supper, and we were immediately acquainted with its subway, or metro system and its friendly people. We were given rooms at a university residence. It was quite similar to American college dorms.

April 2

In the early part of the day we toured most of the Paris landmarks. I particularly enjoyed gazing down at the city from the hill, Montmartre. We then shopped at a huge department store, the Galeries Lafayette. The clerks were very helpful to us in spite of the language barrier.

South Court Teacher Featured

MISS JO ANN WEIDEMAIER

By KATHY BOWERS

"All children can achieve-it is most important to teach survival skills and to teach good self concepts," are the words of this week's featured teacher, Miss Jo Ann Weidemaier. She resides at 212½ E. Franklin St.

Miss Weidemaier is a graduate of Bowling Green State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education. Her major was special education; her minor, elementary education. In college she was active with the Council for Exceptional Children, as she is now.

"I formerly taught in a very small community, so I wanted to come to a larger city," stated Miss Weidemaier, when asked why she came to Circleville to teach. She said she feels that Circleville is a friendly community and that everyone seems proud of his city.

A teacher of special education for seven and eight-year-olds at South Court Street School, Miss Weidemaier feels her work is very challenging and very rewarding. She previously taught two years as an EMR (Educator for the Mentally Retarded) teacher in Holmes County.

In her spare time Miss Weidemaier enjoys sewing and decoupage. She said she feels that today's youth are very creative.

NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL

That evening we ate at a small cafe, where I enjoyed a sandwich called a Croque Monsieur. It was similar to our grilled cheese but much better.

April 3

In the morning and early afternoon we visited the beautiful palace of Versailles and the gardens there and two chateaux near it. I could easily have spent the whole day wandering in the gardens except for the rain.

For supper we found a small restaurant, which served fantastic desserts, including almond cake, raspberry pie and chocolate mousse.

We also stopped to buy fruit and cheese to eat in our rooms for extra energy after what seemed like miles we had walked.

April 4

The entire day was spent traveling along the Loire River and viewing the beautiful chateaux. One of them, Chambord, which was used as a hunting lodge, had 450 rooms. The meals we had that day were also very good.

April 5

Our last full day in France passed quickly. We went to the top of the Eiffel Tower, where it was snowing, and then walked through the catacombs of Paris. The catacombs were morbid but quite interesting. They consisted of what seemed like miles of bones and skulls stacked against the walls of the tunnels. The day concluded with an evening boat ride down the Seine River.

April 6

We visited the Louvre, the museum which houses the Mona Lisa and the Venus de Milo, and an impressionist museum. This museum, although small, contained many excellent paintings by Renoir and Monet, among others. We then went to Le Bourget Airport and took off for the States at 10 p.m. (or 5 p.m. American time). We arrived at JFK soon after midnight.

April 7

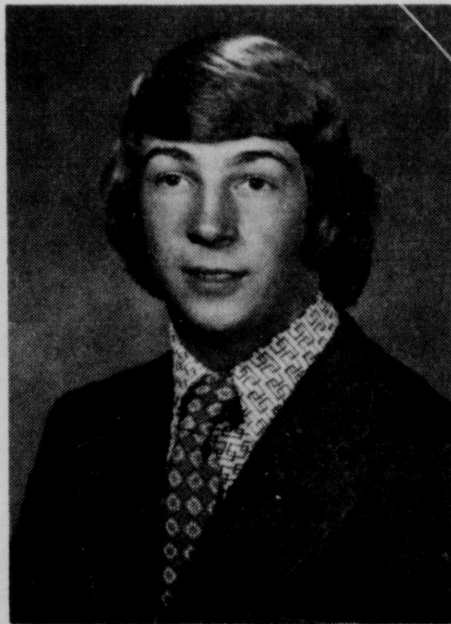

After a brief sleep in a motel at LaGuardia Airport, we took off for Columbus at 7:50 a.m. We landed at 9:20 a.m. Even though I hated to leave Paris, it did feel good to be home.

CHS Sports Include Addition Of Tennis

By LEIGH HRTTZ

The students of Circleville High School have always shown a marked interest in the game of tennis. Because of the popularity of this game, a new team has been added to CHS — the tennis team.

Tennis is not being considered a varsity sport this year because of the small number of matches scheduled. Next fall, with more time to become organized and to prepare a larger schedule, Coach Dan Campbell hopes the tennis team will hold a varsity sport status. He said he also would like to form a girls' tennis team.

Class Play Premiers April 25

By TAMMY DAVIS

The senior class will present "Great Caesar's Ghost" April 25 and 26 in the CHS auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

The story is about a young couple, Tommy (Allen Dray) and Helen (Sarah Happeney), who can't get married because of Helen's superstitious mother, Penelope Maxwell (Barb Dowd).

Johnson (Lowell Hunter), the butler, is advanced upon by the new maid, Esther (Dee Dee Poling), for whom he secretly has a liking.

Penelope and her best friend, Pheobe DeRoyster (Audrey May), attend seances and are interested in mysticism.

Hattie (Evelyn Howard) would like to break a skillet over the head of the neighbor boy, Dick (Steve Stocklen), for stealing her fancy desserts. However, for Dick's punishment he has to entertain a 12-year-old brat, Deborah DeRoyster (Debbie Coey).

Majah the Mystic (Ben McDaniel) swindles money out of the believing Penelope and Pheobe. Aunt Polly (Kristi Rahe) and Uncle Phineas (Dave Harmon), an archeologist, help Tommy and Helen convince Penelope that they should get married.

There are many committees who are involved with the play. Each of these committees is important to the play's success. These committees are set crew, lighting, publicity, tickets, ushers, and make-up.

"Each person has worked hard for the play, and it is going to be worth seeing.

Her future plans include finding a good job or getting married.

points of this year's team will be their competitiveness, good ball placement on the court, and overall interest in the game of tennis. He also believes that because this year's team is a young one, experience will be the key to the future.

Weaknesses of the team will be failure to be aggressive, to be in good position on the court, and to get first serves in, Coach Campbell stated.

By CATHY ROUTT

The 1975 girls' softball team began its season on April 8 against Greenfield and since then has had games with Wilmington and Washington C.H. There are 15 members on this year's team. They are Cathy Armstrong, Kim Bensonhaver, Wanda Boyd, Penny Connell, Sue Crist, Cindy Dayhoff, Molly Hamrick, Linda Holveck, Darla Hughes, Julie Johnson, Kathy Morehart, Pam Pontious, Sue Radcliff, Sue Stevenson and Cindy Tucker.

The girls have eight remaining games:

What's the 1976

Capri II doing in our Lincoln-Mercury

showroom in 1975?

GETTING A LOT OF CAR BUYERS VERY EXCITED... AND FOR FIVE GOOD REASONS.

European design and craftsmanship has created a 3-Door sports coupe of international reputation—with classic lines and considerable luxury. But Capri II is primarily a road car that must be driven to be appreciated. Full instrumentation monitors the performance of the thirty overhead cam four-cylinder engine as it responds to the four-speed manual transmission. From Europe to you: an extraordinary new road car.

1. Size—Considerably smaller than the most popular American compact cars, Capri II is designed for the road.

2. Styling—Preceding the German craftsmanship, Capri II felt the inspired touch of Italy's Ghia design studios.

3. Performance—A sophisticated road machine with spirit, it accelerates, handles and brakes smoothly, predictably.

4. Luxury—Choose from three levels of Capri II luxury: standard, Decor, and Ghia. Each distinctively different.

5. Economy—The aerodynamically efficient Capri II provides good fuel economy, solid-state ignition, steel-belted radials.

See the new Sexy European at the sign of the cat!

French Student Writes About Class's Recent European Tour

By LIBBY GOELLER

Sixteen other students, Mrs. Paula Woodward, French teacher, and I left for Europe on March 29. The following are my observations and impressions. March 29

The day finally arrived! We left Port Columbus at 3:45 p.m. and landed at JFK Airport at 6 p.m. At midnight we took off for England. The flight of seven and one-half hours was uneventful, except for the fact that we moved our watches ahead five hours. March 30

We landed at Gatwick Airport and journeyed by bus to London. Although it was raining, the countryside was beautiful. I was especially amazed to see small cottages with thatched roofs. In London we saw a small "changing of the guards."

It was not the famous one that takes place at Buckingham Palace, but it was still fascinating. We also saw the major landmarks of the city, and, after a supper of sausages, we traveled by the "tube" and on foot to Buckingham Palace and Piccadilly Circus. March 31

After a night in London, we traveled to Canterbury to visit the shrine of Thomas a Becket. I had read about it many times, and I could not believe I was actually seeing it. We then journeyed to Dover, where we boarded a ferry boat to cross the English Channel.

The weather was not bad, but I could not wait to reach dry land. We disembarked at Ostend, Belgium, and immediately boarded another bus to go to Brussels, where we spent our second night in Europe. April 1

The morning found us enroute to Paris, where we would spend the next five days. On the way we visited the cathedral at Reims.

We arrived in Paris for a late supper, and we were immediately acquainted with its subway, or metro system and its friendly people. We were given rooms at a university residence. It was quite similar to American college dorms. April 2

In the early part of the day we toured most of the Paris landmarks. I particularly enjoyed gazing down at the city from the hill, Montmartre. We then shopped at a huge department store, the Galeries Lafayette. The clerks were very helpful to us in spite of the language barrier.

South Court Teacher Featured

MISS JO ANN WEIDEMAIER

By KATHY BOWERS

"All children can achieve—it is most important to teach survival skills and to teach good self concepts," are the words of this week's featured teacher, Miss Jo Ann Weidemaier. She resides at 212½ E. Franklin St.

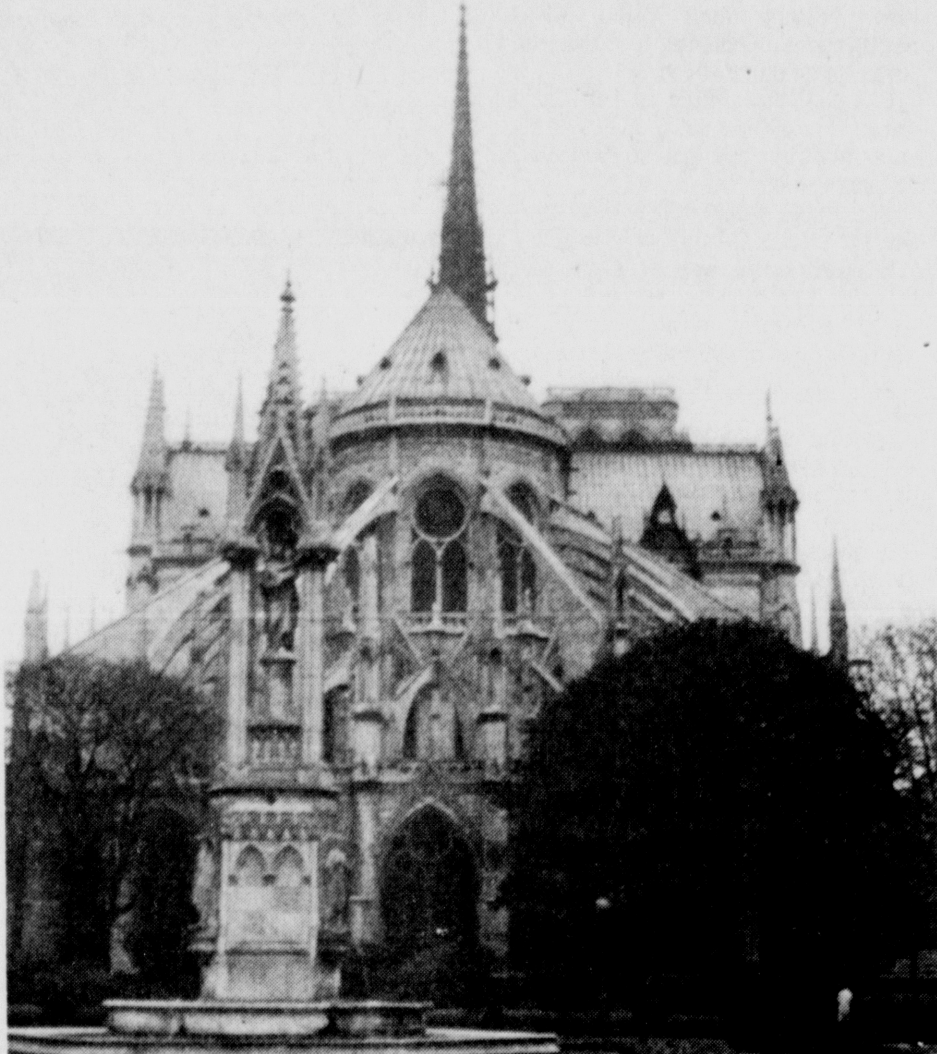

Miss Weidemaier is a graduate of Bowling Green State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education. Her major was special education; her minor, elementary education. In college she was active with the Council for Exceptional Children, as she is now.

"I formerly taught in a very small community, so I wanted to come to a larger city," stated Miss Weidemaier, when asked why she came to Circleville to teach. She said she feels that Circleville is a friendly community and that everyone seems proud of his city.

A teacher of special education for seven and eight-year-olds at South Court Street School, Miss Weidemaier feels her work is very challenging and very rewarding. She previously taught two years as an EMR (Educator for the Mentally Retarded) teacher in Holmes County.

In her spare time Miss Weidemaier enjoys sewing and decoupage. She said she feels that today's youth are very creative.

NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL

That evening we ate at a small cafe, where I enjoyed a sandwich called a Croque Monsieur. It was similar to our grilled cheese but much better. April 3

In the morning and early afternoon we visited the beautiful palace of Versailles and the gardens there and two chateaux near it. I could easily have spent the whole day wandering in the gardens except for the rain.

For supper we found a small restaurant, which served fantastic desserts, including almond cake, raspberry pie and chocolate mousse. We also stopped to buy fruit and cheese to eat in our rooms for extra energy after what seemed like miles we had walked. April 4

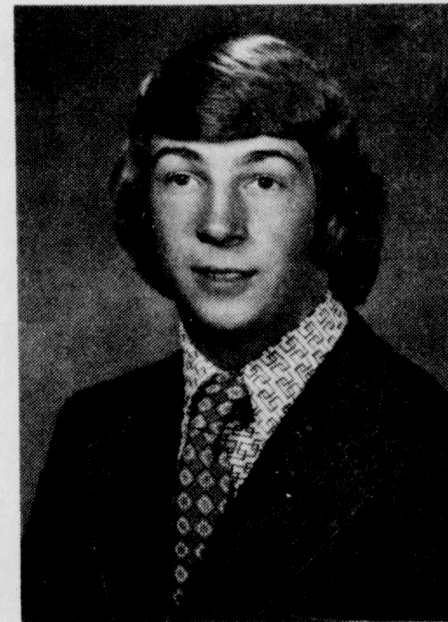

The entire day was spent traveling along the Loire River and viewing the beautiful chateaux. One of them, Chambord, which was used as a hunting lodge, had 450 rooms. The meals we had that day were also very good. April 5

CHS Sports Include Addition Of Tennis

By LEIGH HRITZ

The students of Circleville High School have always shown a marked interest in the game of tennis. Because of the popularity of this game, a new team has been added to CHS — the tennis team.

Tennis is not being considered a varsity sport this year because of the small number of matches scheduled. Next fall, with more time to become organized and to prepare a larger schedule, Coach Dan Campbell hopes the tennis team will hold a varsity sport status. He said he also would like to form a girls' tennis team.

Coach Campbell feels that the strong points of this year's team will be their competitiveness, good ball placement on the court, and overall interest in the game of tennis. He also believes that because this year's team is a young one, experience will be the key to the future.

Weaknesses of the team will be failure to be aggressive, to be in good position on the court, and to get first serves in, Coach Campbell stated.

Guidance Guidelines

Applications are available in the guidance department for Reserve Officer Training Corps scholarships for students now enrolled as juniors.
These scholarships are the most valuable of any available to college students. They pay for tuition, books, fees, and other educational expenses, as well as supplying $100 per month during the academic year to the student.

At some colleges this could amount to as much as $5,000 each year.
The Army, Navy-Marine Corps, and Air Force each administer their own programs. Interested students should look into these opportunities now.

The Pickaway-Ross Vocational school has announced the first-round acceptances for their programs in 1975-76. Thirty-six Circleville students were among those accepted.

Still to be announced are senior cooperative programs and occupational work experience programs.
Openings still exist in a few of the Vocational Center's junior programs. Among those still open are horticulture, child care, law enforcement, food services, home and community, engineering graphics, machine shop, and printing.

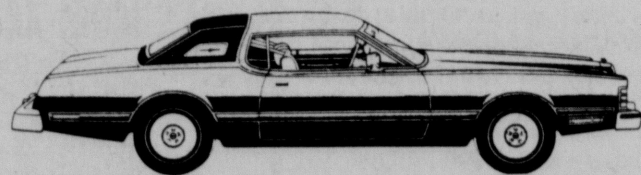

Those interested should contact the guidance department for additional information and application procedure.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Bill 'No-Show' Guests?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I see eye to eye on almost everything, but we have one major difference of opinion. I can't stand people who use dirty four-letter words, and my husband says that that's the way some people talk, and that I should accept them for what they are and try to get over my hang-up.

Sorry, but I can't. I wasn't brought up that way. It's not that I'm a prude, Abby. I've heard all the words and I know what they mean, but I don't see why people who talk dirty can go out of their way to avoid offending those of us who have this so-called "hang-up" about four-letter words.

What is your feeling about this?
HUNG-UP
DEAR HUNG-UP: I'm hung up too, because I wasn't brought up that way, either. But some of the most humane, constructive and interesting people I know occasionally resort to four-letter words. And some of the most intolerant, hypocritical, narrow-minded bigots wouldn't think of using such language.

The sensitive, considerate person who normally uses four-letter words will watch his language out of respect for those in his company whom he knows are offended by it. But one can't always judge a person's worth and character by his language any more than one can judge a book by its cover.

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle an argument. Rob and I had a large church wedding for which we sent out formal invitations six weeks prior to the wedding.

The r.s.v.p.'s were addressed to my parents and stamped so all the people had to do was sign their name and drop it in the mailbox.

Out of 175 invited guests, we heard from only 150.

We also had a formal reception, and of those who accepted, 15 couples didn't show up. My parents had to pay for 30 dinners that were not touched. (We never received a note or even a phone call from the no-shows.)

I am all for sending each of these "no-shows" couples a bill for their dinners. Rob says to drop it and forget the whole thing. What is your opinion?

BURNED IN METHUEN

DEAR BURNED: I'm with Rob. —
DEAR ABBY: Everywhere I go, I see more and more "how to" books!

The latest is on how to make love. I have nothing against that. I'm sure a lot of people need help in that area, but I would like to make one comment.

We read so much about the importance of "foreplay." (Most men are in too big a hurry to get right down to the sex act, not realizing it takes a woman longer to get warmed up.) Very little however, is said about "afterplay"—which, I think is equally important.

Meeting Scheduled To Plan Prom Party

Arrangements for the Circleville High School After-Prom Party will be discussed at a meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. H. McCoy, 382 Meadow Lane, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Parents of Circleville High School juniors and seniors who would be interested in helping with the plans are invited to attend.

Parents are reminded that contributions are still being accepted to finance this party by C. P. Brackett, 609 Garden Parkway.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Bill 'No-Show' Guests?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I see eye to eye on almost everything, but we have one major difference of opinion. I can't stand people who use dirty four-letter words, and my husband says that that's the way some people talk, and that I should accept them for what they are and try to get over my hang-up.

Sorry, but I can't. I wasn't brought up that way. It's not that I'm a prude, Abby. I've heard all the words and I know what they mean, but I don't see why people who talk dirty can go out of their way to avoid offending those of us who have this so-called "hang-up" about four-letter words.

What is your feeling about this? HUNG-UP
DEAR HUNG-UP: I'm hung up too, because I wasn't brought up that way, either. But some of the most humane, constructive and interesting people I know occasionally resort to four-letter words. And some of the most intolerant, hypocritical, narrow-minded bigots wouldn't think of using such language.

The sensitive, considerate person who normally uses four-letter words will watch his language out of respect for those in his company whom he knows are offended by it. But one can't always judge a person's worth and character by his language any more than one can judge a book by its cover.

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle an argument. Rob and I had a large church wedding for which we sent out formal invitations six weeks prior to the wedding.

The r.s.v.p.'s were addressed to my parents and stamped so all the people had to do was sign their name and drop it in the mailbox.

Out of 175 invited guests, we heard from only 150.

We also had a formal reception, and of those who accepted, 15 couples didn't show up. My parents had to pay for 30 dinners that were not touched. (We never received a note or even a phone call from the no-shows.)

I am all for sending each of these "no-shows" couples a bill for their dinners. Rob says to drop it and forget the whole thing. What is your opinion?

BURNED IN METHUEN

DEAR BURNED: I'm with Rob.

DEAR ABBY: Everywhere I go, I see more and more "how to" books! The latest is on how to make love. I have nothing against that. I'm sure a lot of people need help in that area, but I would like to make one comment.

We read so much about the importance of "foreplay." (Most men are in too big a hurry to get right down to the sex act, not realizing it takes a woman longer to get warmed up.) Very little however, is said about "afterplay"-which, I think is equally important.

Meeting Scheduled To Plan Prom Party

Arrangements for the Circleville High School After-Prom Party will be discussed at a meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. H. McCoy, 382 Meadow Lane, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Parents of Circleville High School juniors and seniors who would be interested in helping with the plans are invited to attend.

Parents are reminded that contributions are still being accepted to finance this party by C. P. Brackett, 609 Garden Parkway.

This week we had two nice ladies stop in at the office and discuss a program that they have been working on and would like to get started this summer.

Mrs. James Ballou, 474-7176, and Mrs. D. N. McCollister are very much interested in getting a softball league for girls between the ages of nine and 14 this summer and we think they have a good idea.

The young ladies should enjoy playing and being a part of a team is good for them. In addition to this, the high schools are now starting to have girls softball teams and the youngsters who participate in the local program will have an advantage when they reach the upper grades.

They are going to hold registrations at Ted Lewis Park between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and again on April 26. All girls in this age group who reside in Circleville or Pickaway County are eligible.

We were involved in the forming of several youth baseball leagues when we lived in Youngstown and would like to offer a little advice.

It takes a little money to get a league started so they will need sponsors and a lot of help from other mothers and fathers.

If they get enough girls to form four teams they will have a league and can take it from there. They will need equipment, bats, balls, catching gear, to get things going. It would be nice to have full uniforms but the equipment must come first. If they can just buy T shirts with the name of the sponsors, the girls could furnish their own shorts or blue jeans.

The main thing is to get the thing started, even in a small way, and it will grow in the coming years.

It might be advisable to talk to some of the members of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program who have been through this and might make things a little easier for the new girls loop.

We think that anything that benefits the kids, boys and girls, is a fine thing and we are all for it.

Besides, no matter what anyone says — girls are prettier than boys.

We are at the Herald office every day and if we can be of any assistance please call on us.

Our "fearless" forecast — Andy North looks good in the South in the Pensacola Open . . . Palmer, Sandra that is, looks pretty good in the Colgate-Dinah Shore event, after all she is a former Texas Beauty Queen.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Logan Elm Defeats Pickerington, 9-3

Logan Elm Braves defeated Pickerington's Tigers Thursday by a score of 9-3 in a Mid State League baseball game played on the loser's diamond.

Steve Rawlins was the winning pitcher. He got off to a rocky start, walking the first four men he faced, but then steeled down to do a good job the rest of the way. He walked a total of eight, fanned three and was touched for six hits through six innings. He was relieved in the seventh by Steve Marshall who walked the first two men he faced then retired the side on strikeouts.

The Tigers scored one run in the first inning and two in the fifth.

Logan Elm got its big bats going in the third inning when Randy Pontius singled and then scored on Jeti Reichelderfer's triple. Reichelderfer scored on a passed ball.

In the fifth, Rob Black smashed a 400-foot triple and scored on Randy

Falcons Clip Vikings, 6-1

Franklin Heights kept pecking away with single runs and it paid off as the visiting Falcons stopped Teays Valley, 6-1, and took over the lead in the Metropolitan League Thursday.

The Falcons tallied single markers in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth frames and capped the scoring with a pair of markers in the top of the seventh.

Brad Stuthard was on the hill for the Vikings. He allowed five hits, five walks and struck out four.

Jim Hakes went all the way to gain the win for the Falcons. He gave up five hits, fanned four and didn't issue a free pass.

Teays Valley's lone run came in the bottom of the fifth.

Ron Bumgarner had two singles, Jim Baxter rapped a double while Stuthard and Rusty Rathburn each had a one-bagger for the Blue and Gold.

The Vikings committed three errors in the contest and Franklin Heights one.

Teays Valley is now 8-3 on the season, 3-1 in the league, and will be at Grandview 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Andy North Leads Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — "I've just been hoping to make pars the last couple of tournaments," says Andy North, who went on a birdie-scoring binge to take a one-shot lead in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament with a seven-under-par 64.

If North's track record holds in this tournament, he could be in excellent position to get his first victory in his third season on the tour.

"I've always played better in the last rounds," the former University of Florida star said Thursday. "All of my good checks have come when I've been shooting good in the third and fourth rounds."

The 34-30 over the par 35-36— 71

Pensacola Country Club course gave North, whose best finish was a second at Houston last year, a one-shot edge over a quartet of players — Bruce Crampton, 1971 Masters champion Charles Coody, obscure Mike Wynn and Bert Greene, who has been sidelined for most of the past six months with a hand injury.

With 30 players breaking 70 in the opening round, it appeared it might take better than even par to survive today's cut when the field of 14 is trimmed to the lowest 70 scorers and ties.

Among those on the borderline at the start of the second round were South African Gary Player and Lee Elder, who won this event a year ago and thus became the first black man ever to play in the Masters.

Billy Casper had to settle for a par 71 while Great Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, who lost a playoff to Elder last year, was at 72.

Three shots away at 67 were Los Angeles Open winner Pat Fitzsimmons, veteran Miller Barber, Don Iverson, Sam Adams, and Bryan Abbott.

LE Girls Lose To Pickerington

Logan Elm's girls softball team jumped out to an 8-0 lead over visiting Pickerington Thursday only to see the Tigers pick up 13 runs in the third and fourth innings to nip the Braves, 13-11.

Logan Elm picked up a single run in the second and capped its scoring with a pair in the fourth.

Diane Martin was on the mound for Logan Elm and took the loss.

Anette Roof led the Brave hitters with a triple and double, Hope Justice and Joyce Pine had a double and single, Debbie Betz and Rita Karshner each had a double, Diane Martin, Monica Payne and Pat Martin each had a pair of singles while Krista Gifford and Beth Bell each rapped a single.

Logan Elm is now 2-1 and will host Circleville 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Curb a tendency to be overly critical. Don't look for weaknesses in others and don't look for flaws in every proposed idea. If one is obvious, point it out, of course.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Look deeply for answers to problems in which you may have become involved. Don't shut your eyes to them. A bright outlook is yours for the seeing.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Be wary of overdoing or overplaying your hand. Evaluate true needs, determine essentials — and tackle in order of importance.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fairly favorable influences encourage your interests, but do not go overboard in making program changes. Neither reach for the obviously unattainable.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): This day's accent is on career achievement, improved relations with those in positions of authority. A great day for making room for yourself at the top.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stress moderation. As with Cancer, do not strive for the unreasonable and do not permit your active mind to carry your physical self beyond sensible bounds.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Take only the short cuts which common sense dictates. In general, you will have to put in extra effort to make this day's activities shape up better, faster.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Don't listen to what "they" say when you have reason to believe the source is questionable. Stress your good judgment and foresight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): An average day, if you are content to leave it at that. But, if you are ready to accept challenges, it holds the nucleus of fine achievement and new opportunities to reach higher objectives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Get the other fellow's point of view before making final decisions. You may be pleasantly surprised at the new perspectives you gain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be flexible, but not easily turned by every wind that blows; eager to take new steps forward, but not at the cost of future losses.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A fine day! You may be the recipient of special favors, tokens of good will or other unexpected benefits.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great versatility and the verve to lead a full, interesting, action-filled life. You are suited to either the business world or the arts, depending on your inclinations. No matter what you undertake, however, you are highly original in your methods and sometimes confound others with your unpredictability. Curb tendencies toward impulsiveness, temper tantrums and lack of balance through overemotionalism.

Try to cultivate poise and more tolerance for your fellowmen. Fields especially suited to your talents: writing, painting, business management, the law, statesmanship, science and the theater. Birthdate of: Jayne Mansfield, film actress.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
Is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Revere Rides Again In Mansfield Area

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Paul Revere rides into Lexington again, with his three-cornered hat jammed tightly on his head and cape flowing in the breeze.

Richland County bicentennial planners are staging a re-creation Friday of the famous midnight ride 200 years ago which Revere made "through every village, middlesex and farm."

Revere, played by Ralph Ruggles of Mansfield, will ride from Mansfield to Lexington, where he will be greeted with patriotic music, ringing bells and marching bands.

The commemorative event, planned jointly by Mansfield's and Lexington's bicentennial committees, begins at the Richland County Courthouse.

Joseph Polhemus, festival chairman for the bicentennial congress, will read stanzas from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's stirring poem about the silversmith-patriot who carried the alarm of the British's coming.

Polhemus hopes listeners will forgive Longfellow's poetic license.

Actually, Polhemus points out, the signal lanterns — "one if by land and two if by sea" — were not hung from the Old North Church but from the tower of Christ Church.

And Revere never made it to Concord, contrary to Longfellow's account.

He started out from Boston at 10 p.m. and arrived in Lexington at midnight, riding a borrowed horse.

From Lexington, he set out for Concord with William Dawes and Dr. Samuel Prescott, but the trio was surprised by a British patrol.

Dawes and Prescott managed to escape. Revere was captured and later allowed to go free.

The Richland County bicentennial planners are also taking some liberties with history.

Ruggles-Revere will gallop out of Mansfield on horseback along Lexington Avenue. But because of the heavy traffic on U.S. 42, he and his mount will be carted by truck to just outside Lexington.

Ruggles will then come riding into Lexington, where he will be met at the village square by a drum and flute corps, the Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard, and a muzzle-loading rifle group from Mount Gilead.

Bells will ring and a cannon will be fired as a bicentennial proclamation is read by the town's leaders.

Expanded Ag Research Promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to expand United States agricultural research efforts by an additional $50 million a year was made Thursday by Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, in recognition of Food Day.

The Akron lawmaker's bill would earmark funds for innovative research projects towards the development of new kinds of low-cost protein for human and livestock consumption; new types of fertilizer; new irrigation techniques, and new methods of processing vegetable and other nonanimal protein.

Revere Rides Again In Mansfield Area

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Paul Revere rides into Lexington again, with his three-cornered hat jammed tightly on his head and cape flowing in the breeze.

Richland County bicentennial planners are staging a re-creation Friday of the famous midnight ride 200 years ago which Revere made "through every village, middlesex and farm."

Revere, played by Ralph Ruggles of Mansfield, will ride from Mansfield to Lexington, where he will be greeted with patriotic music, ringing bells and marching bands.

The commemorative event, planned jointly by Mansfield's and Lexington's bicentennial committees, begins at the Richland County Courthouse.

Joseph Polhemus, festival chairman for the bicentennial congress, will read stanzas from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's stirring poem about the silversmith-patriot who carried the alarm of the British's coming.

Polhemus hopes listeners will forgive Longfellow's poetic license. Actually, Polhemus points out, the signal lanterns — "one if by land and two if by sea" — were not hung from the Old North Church but from the tower of Christ Church.

And Revere never made it to Concord, contrary to Longfellow's account.

He started out from Boston at 10 p.m. and arrived in Lexington at midnight, riding a borrowed horse.

From Lexington, he set out for Concord with William Dawes and Dr. Samuel Prescott, but the trio was surprised by a British patrol.

Dawes and Prescott managed to escape. Revere was captured and later allowed to go free.

The Richland County bicentennial planners are also taking some liberties with history.

Ruggles-Revere will gallop out of Mansfield on horseback along Lexington Avenue. But because of the heavy traffic on U.S. 42, he and his mount will be carted by truck to just outside Lexington.

Ruggles will then come riding into Lexington, where he will be met at the village square by a drum and flute corps, the Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard, and a muzzle-loading rifle group from Mount Gilead.

Bells will ring and a cannon will be fired as a bicentennial proclamation is read by the town's leaders.

Expanded Ag Research Promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to expand United States agricultural research efforts by an additional $50 million a year was made Thursday by Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, in recognition of Food Day.

The Akron lawmaker's bill would earmark funds for innovative research projects towards the development of new kinds of low-cost protein for human and livestock consumption; new types of fertilizer; new irrigation techniques, and new methods of processing vegetable and other nonanimal protein.

Five members of the Board of Directors of the Pickaway County Volunteers for Youth met noon Tuesday at the YMCA.

Cosworth Vega Output Under Way

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—General Motors Corp. has introduced a high-performance, limited production version of the Vega with computer-controlled fueling and a specially designed engine.

A Chevrolet Division spokesman said production will be held to 5,000 a year and all will be black with gold-color trim.

The sports car-like subcompact, called the Cosworth Vega after Cosworth Engineering Ltd. of England which developed the engine, got 17 miles per gallon in town and 29 on the highway in Environmental Protection Agency tests.

The computer monitors engine and related functions through sensors and feeds the minimum amount of fuel needed through an electronic fuel injection system. The two-liter, four-cylinder engine features 16 valves and twin overhead camshafts. It develops 120 horsepower at 5,600 engine revolutions per minute.

The Cosworth will be assembled on the same line here from which come the regular Vegas and the Pontiac Astre, but the production rate will be 1.6 per hour. Normal production here is 100 units per hour, earning the plant the description of the world's fastest car assembly line. The engine will be built by hand at Chevy's plant in Tonawanda, N.Y.

Robert C. Lund, introducing the Cosworth here Thursday, said 85 have been built and 25 delivered. It will be handled only by selected dealers and sports a base price of $5,916.

'Big Muskie' Worth Less?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Owners of "Big Muskie," the world's largest earth-moving machine, have asked the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals to reduce the value of the giant shovel to lower 1971-72 property taxes.

The board has set a hearing April 28 on the request that the machine be reduced in value from $25 million to $8 million.

A similar request made by the company on taxes owed for 1970 was rejected by the board.

Edward J. Kirwin, chief examiner for the board, said the request was made by Commonwealth Plan, Inc., of Boston, which leases the huge machine to Central Ohio Coal Co. for strip mining in Muskingum County.

Kirwin said the owners claim "Big Muskie" was only onethird efficient in 1971-72.

A spokesman for the Tax Department said the company owes about $600,000 in taxes for 1971-72. The money would be reimbursed to Muskingum County.

"Big Muskie" weighs 27 million pounds, is 20 feet wide and 65 feet long and has a 310-foot boom. Its 220 cubic yard bucket can scoop 325 tons of earth.

Cancer Research Program Slated

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue University educators are planning a program for graduate students in the area of cancer research.

Dr. Heinz G. Floss, chairman of the University Cancer Research Committee, said Thursday Purdue is applying to the National Cancer Institute for approval of the program. He said graduate students could earn master's and doctor's degree in cancer research if it is approved.

He said projections are for 30 graduate students to be trained in the program each year, plus another 10 to 12 persons with doctor's degrees who are continuing their educations.

Hewitt briefly explained the NYPUM program which he hopes the Circleville YMCA will be able to sponsor. He invited any interested board member to attend an information session on the program April 22.

Edith Downing reported on her attending the recent Circleville City School Board of Education meeting and on a meeting held March 31 among board members and staff members of the Juvenile Court.

Marsha Schneider reported the schedule for the In-Service training sessions through November.

The board discussed seeking a new board member to replace Gloria Stiles who recently resigned.

The need was also stressed for volunteers who live outside the city of Circleville to work with youth living in these areas. Interested persons should contact any board member.

Vandals, Thieves Strike 5 City School Buildings

Three Circleville City School buildings were entered by thieves Thursday night or Friday morning and two others were attacked by vandals, according to Circleville Police reports.

The worst damage and loss appeared to have occurred at the Circleville High School.

Charles Rhymer, a custodian, reported that entry was gained to the building by breaking out a window on the north side.

The thieves broke into the principal's office, the Distributive Education room, the teacher's lounge, an English room, and another room in the high school.

Extensive damage was committed to the sliding glass receptionist window in the principal's office and a lost and found jewelry box was taken.

The soft drink machine in the teacher's lounge was destroyed. The thieves turned the machine, which was filled with bottles of soft drinks, onto its back and pruned off the top to gain access to the money box.

About $30 in change was taken.

There was also extensive vandalism to the interior of the building, Grade books were ripped up, slides were thrown on the floor, and other damage was committed.

Thieves also broke into the adjacent Nicholas Drive Elementary School by breaking a window on the north side.

Change was taken from an office, and the principal's office door was damaged.

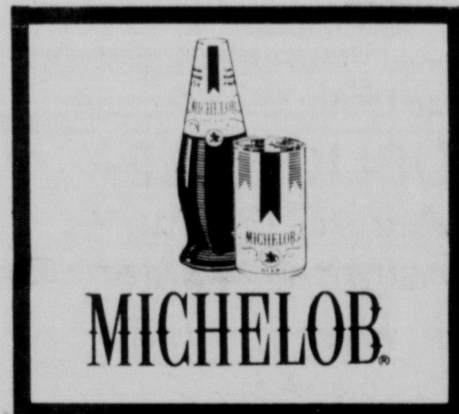

Ray Ward, a custodian at the S. Court St. Elementary School, told police that the building was entered by breaking glass on a set of double doors on the east side.

Thieves entered the teacher's lounge and removed the coin box from the soft drink machine.

They also entered the principal's office, although nothing appeared to be missing.

Approximately 300 high school students from the Eastern part of the United States are attending the annual Youth Conference held at the Circleville Bible College, today and Saturday.

The theme of the weekend activity is "Herein is Love", taken from I John 4:10 in the Bible.

The students will have the choice to attend eight classes with the college students and three forums, "Dating and Marriage" directed by Dr. Gene Mendenhall; "Christian Ethics" by the Rev. David Case and "Why Attend A Bible College?" by the Rev. David Lattimer.

Entertainment includes the movie "So Long Joey", and comedy and musical skits by college students. A choral ensemble will present Otis Skilling's musical "Love" 6:30 and 8:15 p.m. tonight in the Student Center.

Lloyd Stines is the keynote speaker for the conference with Gary Thompson, Jim Dorsey, Mike Foster and Joe Leatherwood also speaking during the weekend confab.

The Rev. Melvin Maxwell, College President, will deliver the final sermon of the Conference Saturday morning.

Gary Thompson, CBC Student Council President and Jim Dorsey, CBC Missionary Organization President, are in charge of the 1975 Youth Conference.

Vandals, Thieves Strike 5 City School Buildings

Three Circleville City School buildings were entered by thieves Thursday night or Friday morning and two others were attacked by vandals, according to Circleville Police reports.

The worst damage and loss appeared to have occurred at the Circleville High School.

Charles Rhymer, a custodian, reported that entry was gained to the building by breaking out a window on the north side.

The thieves broke into the principal's office, the Distributive Education room, the teacher's lounge, an English room, and another room in the high school.

Extensive damage was committed to the sliding glass receptionist window in the principal's office and a lost and found jewelry box was taken.

The soft drink machine in the teacher's lounge was destroyed. The thieves turned the machine, which was filled with bottles of soft drinks, onto its back and pryed off the top to gain access to the money box.

About $30 in change was taken.

There was also extensive vandalism to the interior of the building. Grade books were ripped up, slides were thrown on the floor, and other damage was committed.

Thieves also broke into the adjacent Nicholas Drive Elementary School by breaking a window on the north side.

Change was taken from an office, and the principal's office door was damaged.

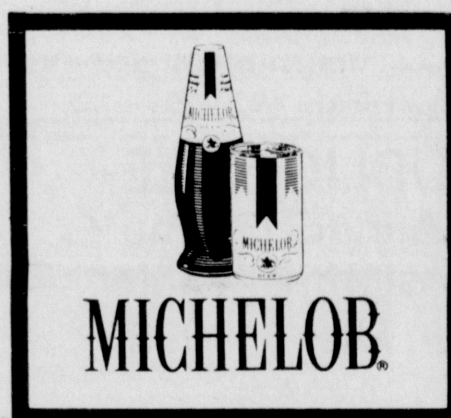

Ray Ward, a custodian at the S. Court St. Elementary School, told police that the building was entered by breaking glass on a set of double doors on the east side.

Thieves entered the teacher's lounge and removed the coin box from the soft drink machine.

They also entered the principal's office, although nothing appeared to be missing.
